Miss Ruth Stroud

For the Priceless Gift of Words . . .

For all your years of service to the school, and for the few years we have known you, especially in Senior English...

For the gift of understanding Shakespeare, Hawthorne, and Cather...

For all the class digressions on Jordan, the sufferings of others, and concern for mankind...

For teaching the fun of the English language and literature, even in the classics...

For useful quotations, like "Here have we now our country's honor blessed"...

And, most of all, for the priceless gift of words to read, write, and enjoy...

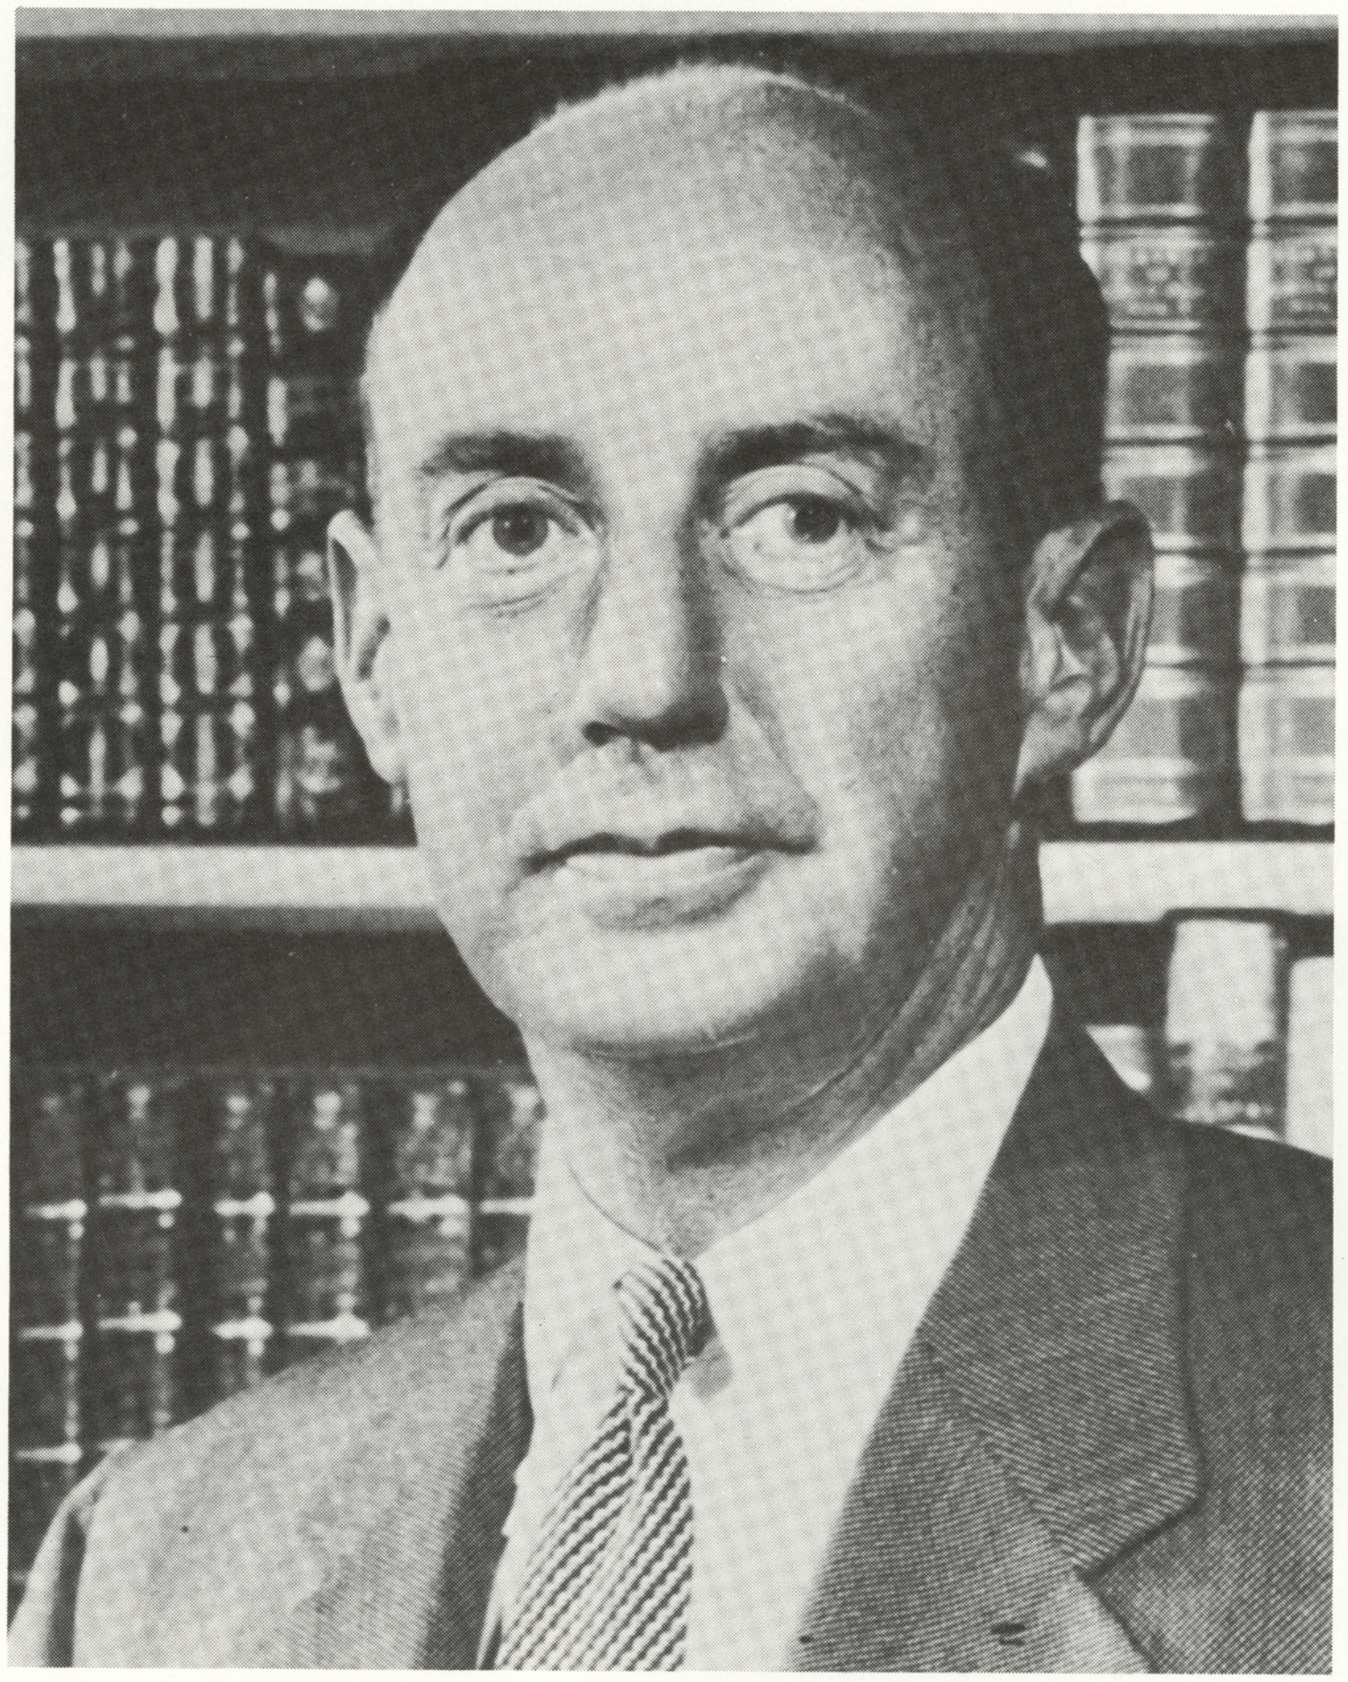

We gratefully dedicate this 1964-65 Clarion to you on the occasion of your retirement.

The administration is the heart of the school. Like the heart, it is the center of activity. Teachers and students alike depend on it. Textbooks, mimeographed announcements and minutes, tardy slips, attendance records, and cleanly swept floors are a few of the items for which the administration is responsible.

Moving into the new building has been a challenge for the administration. Throughout this year, as well as in the two previous years, Dr. Lovelass and his staff have been involved with planning the transition to the last detail. New equipment had to be ordered and then properly placed. The move required a new set of rules for the students and a new schedule for students and teachers as well. Books and records had to be inventoried and packed. Efficiency in adjustment has put the librarians' books on the shelves, teachers' offices in order, and even Mr. Legg's tardy slips neatly stacked in drawers.

Looking toward the future, U High will always be constantly improving. With new equipment and a larger enrollment, the role of the administration will increase.

Audio-visual aids have changed the format of math classes the past year. Most of the teachers have employed the overhead projectors and models in their attempts to make their subjects more readily understood. The shift from paper-backed to hard-backed textbooks seemed to indicate the permanent acceptance of modern math in the regular curriculum. As in the past, the department offered a five year program in math, through calculus. Next year, the calculus class will be offered in the high school, so students will not be in college classes.

The move to the new school meant many improvements for the several classes of the science departments. Laboratory facilities for use by the high school alone were introduced for the first time. A special feature in the new classrooms and labs is the moveable mirror for use in demonstrations. Tabletops and lighting are both better in the new labs than in the university ones. Seven years of science are now offered at U High, including two years each of biology, chemistry, and physics.

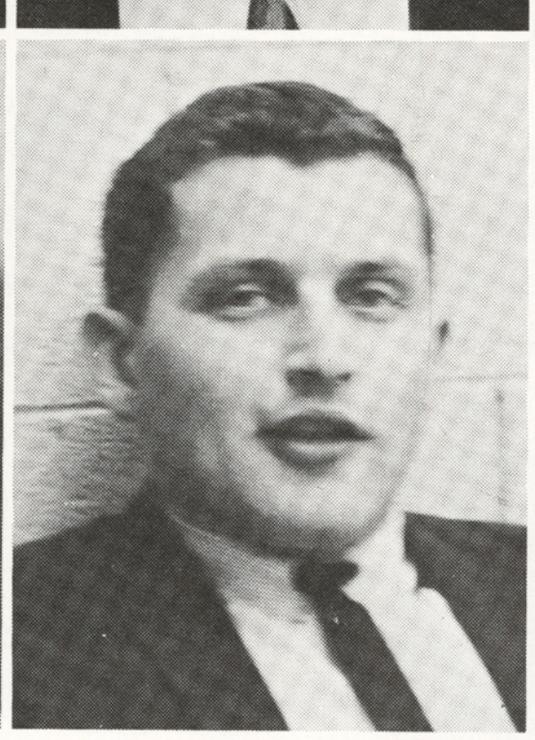

Algebra problems come easily to Mr. Krause's students.

Few Changes Visible in English Curriculum

Keeping up with the nation-wide trend, many new things have been added to the language department.

A new teaching method was used by Dr. Levengood on the French I students. This technique consisted of using movies of French people speaking native French. Also different in the department was the presence of a French IV class.

Both Spanish I and II are taught by Mr. Zelson. He believes in conveying language to the class by speaking, writing, and reading. One aspect the Spanish II students like is the speaking of Spanish in the classroom.

German students this year had a new teacher, Dr. Fuehrer, who brought with him an entirely different style of teaching. Dr. Fuehrer commented: "The learning of a foreign language has two basic purposes: to learn about the culture and thought of another people, and to better understand our native English."

A new teacher has been added to the Russian staff, Miss Bump. She teaches the practical application of Russian, thus stressing mostly vocabulary and speaking in the classroom.

The English department has concentrated on the same methods of teaching as they have in previous years.

Miss Stroud looks back over 35 years of teaching at University High School.

Home Ec, Business Ed Increase Amount of New Equipment

Mrs. Chase teaches the fine points of sewing to her Home Ec. class.

Moving to the new school has provided both the Home Economics and Business Education Departments with better equipment and facilities. Each department is planning to use its facilities to a greater extent in the future.

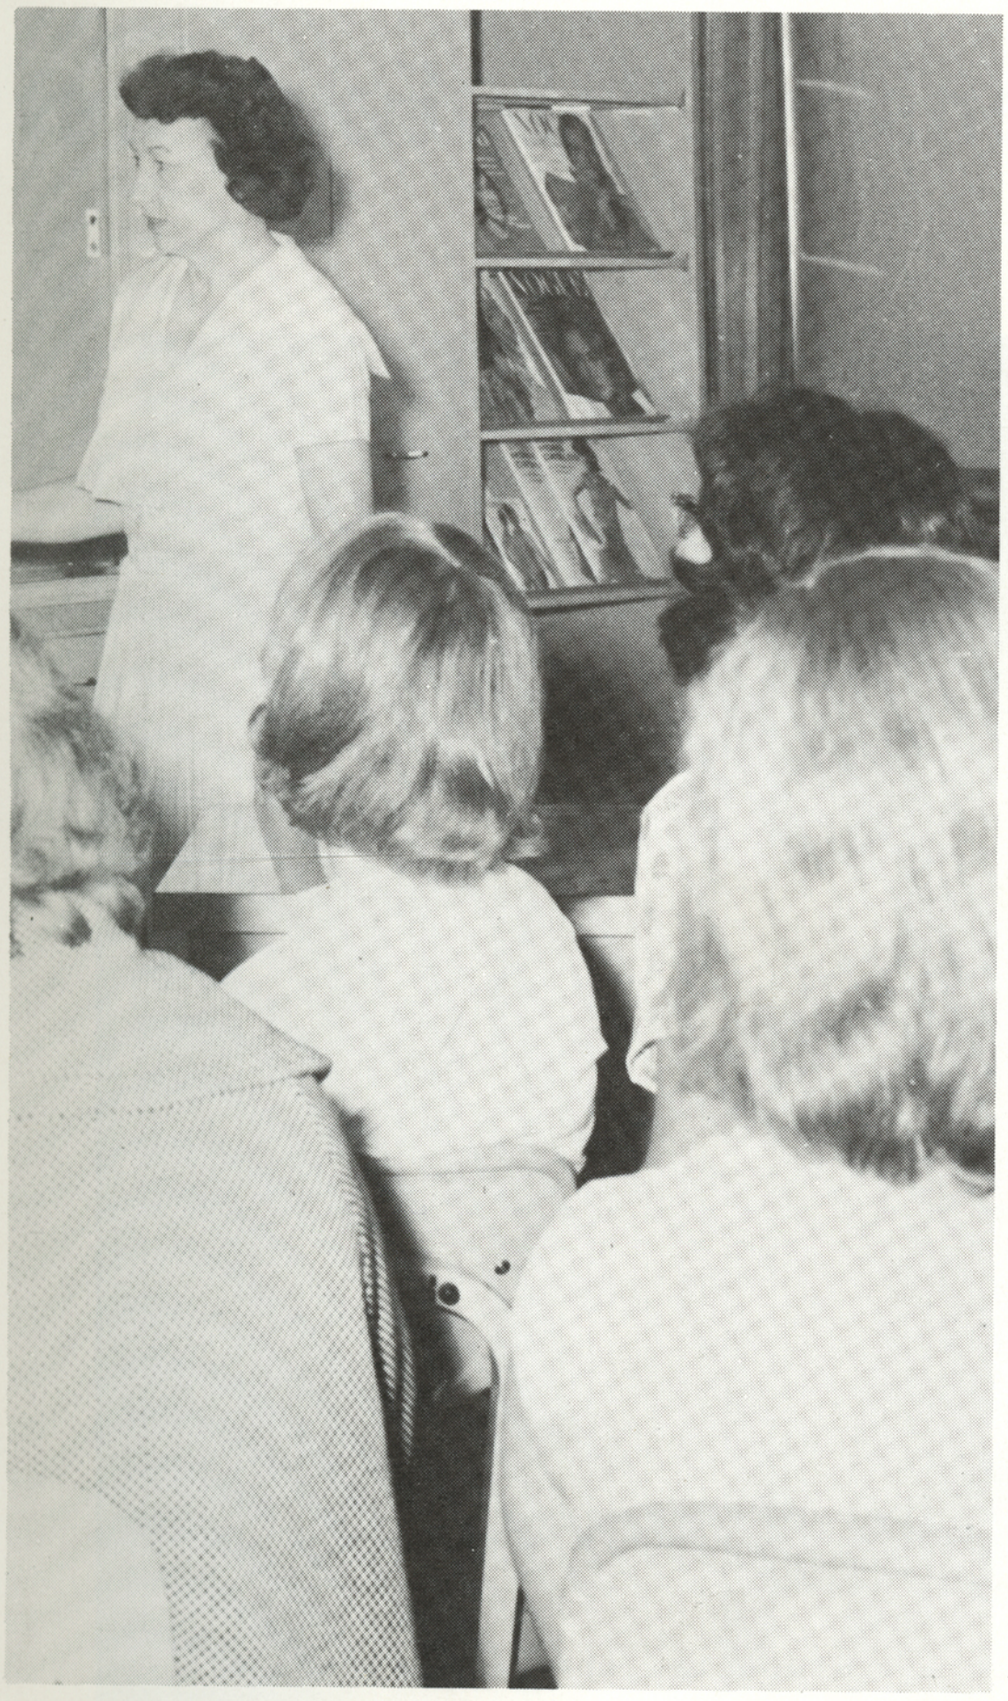

The aroma of delectable cuisine floating from the third floor is testimony that the Home Economics Department is already putting its new facilities to good use. New equipment includes individual sewing machines for each girl and a demonstration area for the teacher. Having a patio outside will provide the possibility for future units in outdoor cooking.

This year the Business Education Department has attempted to update its existing courses. The addition of various office machines has furthered pupil understanding and interest. By offering two levels of bookkeeping, the department has tried to meet the needs of the college bound student as well as those of the vocational student. Future plans in this area include the establishment of an office situation for the use of secretarial practice students.

Typing techniques are taught to business students.

New Building Provides Extensive Lab Facilities

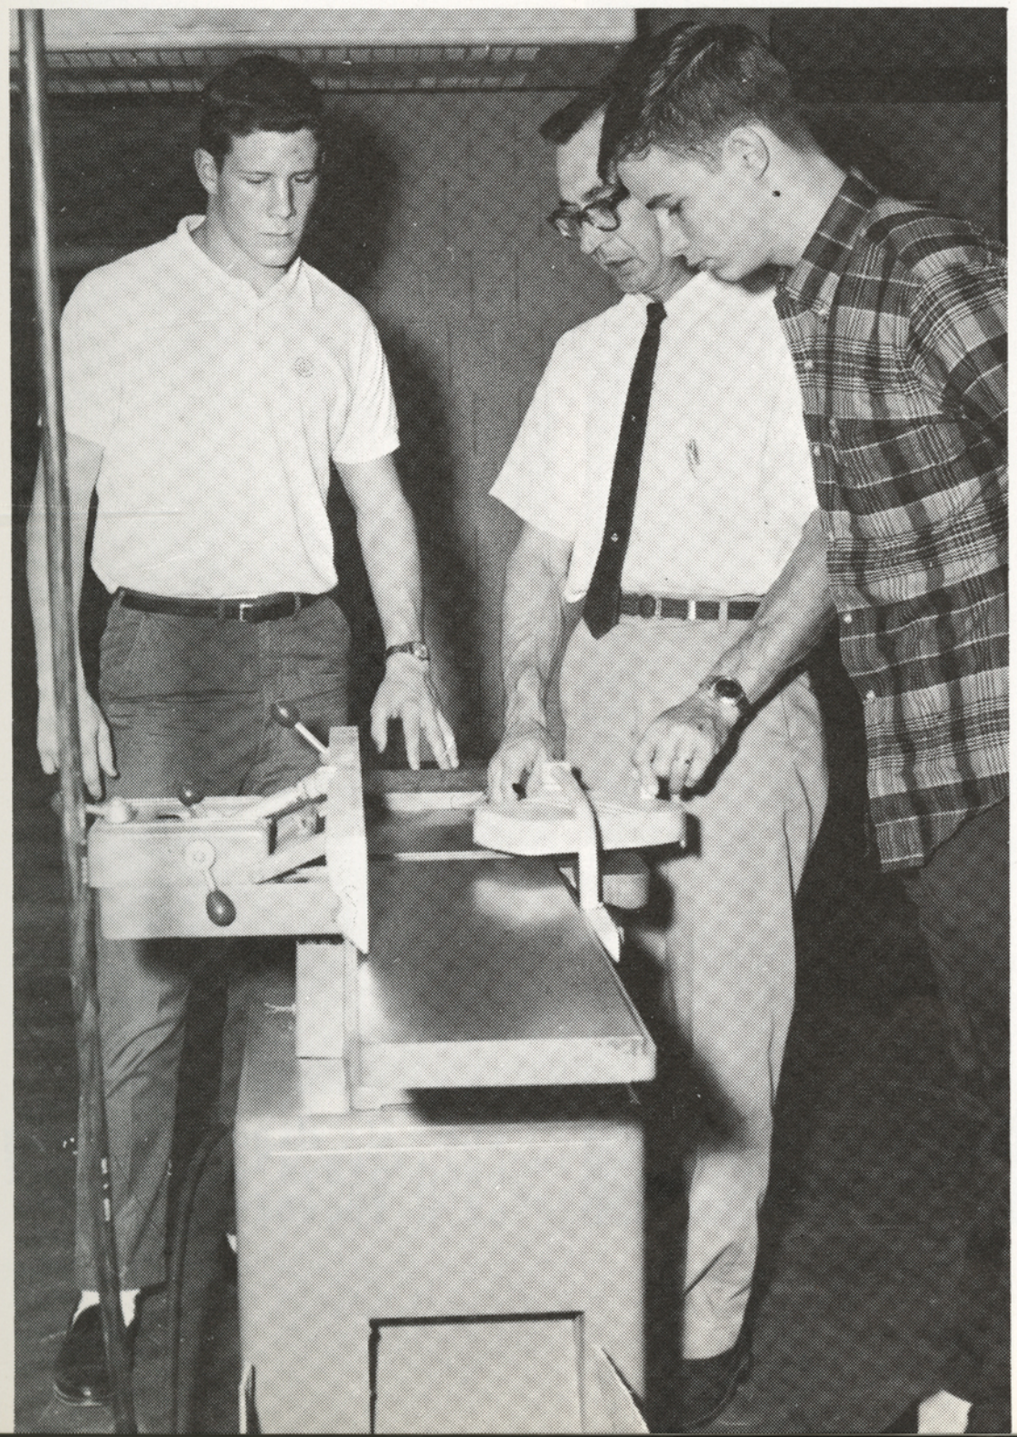

The exacting perfection of mechanical drawing demands the students' complete attention.

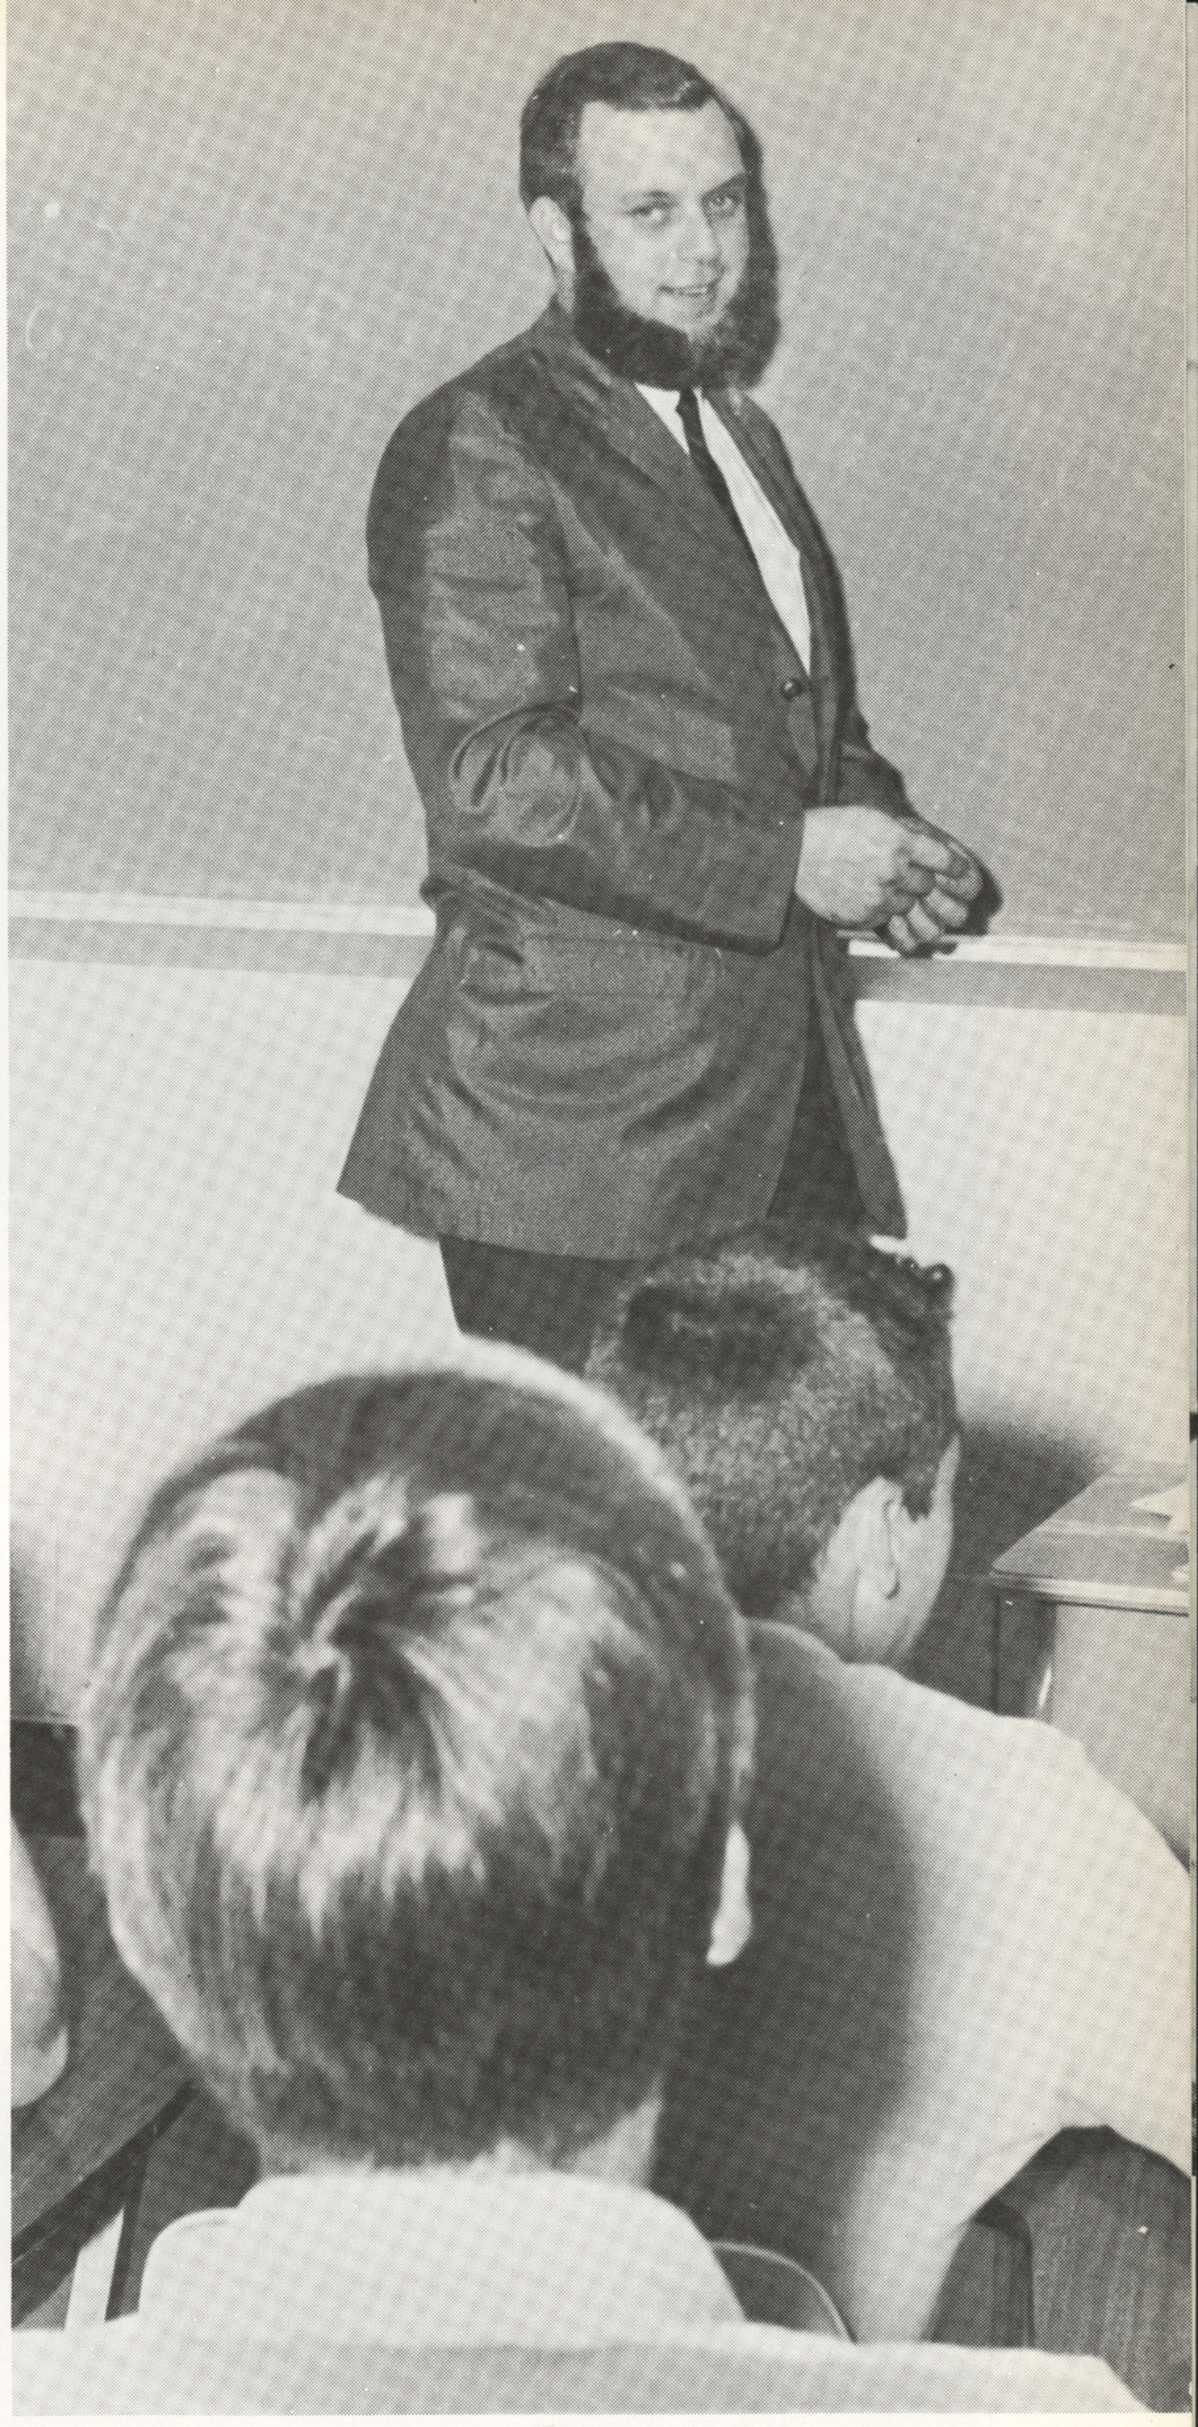

For the first time, the U High industrial arts department has equipment of its own. The move to the new school meant a whole industrial arts laboratory for the department. In the old building, the only equipment U High had was a roomful of drafting desks and tools; all other classes had to be taught in the university classrooms. A few classes are still taught in Turner Hall, but the gradual addition of new equipment should eliminate that practice.

The purpose of the industrial arts department is not to teach vocational skills, but to acquaint students with the many phases of industrial arts.

Music, Art Departments Cultivate Talent

Showing off its form, the U High marching band plays at the half of a football game.

The U High band has undergone many changes this year in the reorganization of the band library, rehearsal procedure, and practice time. Band members now have practice rooms which are always available. An addition to this year's regular program was a concert given by the U High band which included next year's freshmen. This gave them the experience of playing with a concert band.

In chorus and in orchestra the students experienced the aspects of music that lead to better understanding and more enjoyment.

The purpose of an art class is to "teach" creativity. The move to the new U High has provided a better opportunity to cover more aspects of creativity. Such areas as metal work and sculpture can now be studied.

Student art work is put up in the new display area by Bob Waters.

Social Science and Speech Provide Many Opportunities

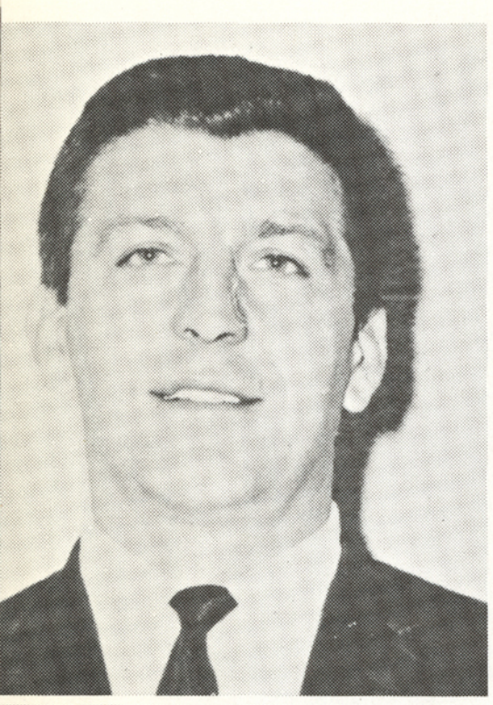

Dr. Laidig uses the globe to explain a geographical term.

Backed by championship trophies, Linda Stephenson gives her final speech.

Social science classes are designed to help students gain skills and attitudes to appreciate the forces that make the world what it is. For example, the overall objective of sociology is to provide a deeper understanding of basic factors which underlie the existence of freedom, equality of opportunity, and political stability in American society. U High's economics classes have some basic tasks. Two important ones are to introduce economic concepts and theories and to examine some current value judgments about economic policy questions. The purpose of our world history courses is to delve into the processes that make man tick. A new approach to world history which will be followed in the future is that of viewing the course from the economist's point of view. A model civilization will be set up and then applied to different societies. This will provide for more than just a cultural concept of world history.

Speech is a process of oral communication, thinking on your feet, and stating your opinions so that others can understand and react. The fundamentals of these aspects are what is covered in the elementary speech course. Advanced speech deals with the polishing of these fundamentals along with the development of special types of speeches. The discussion and debate course offered at U High promotes the development of logical argument. Our dramatics course provides the opportunity to learn the fundamentals of acting, to understand the structures of the drama, and to give the student the criteria with which to judge a performance.

Intramural Interest Runs High

Girls' P.E. Expands To Include More Activities

The main emphasis this year in girls' physical education was the expansion of girls' intramurals to include synchronized swimming, modern dance, and contract bridge. The department is planning to expand even more in the future because of the added space. Miss Bird, head of the department, commented, "I hope that every girl will take advantage of at least one field of intramurals and improve her own ability."

Coach Metcalf recalled that the past year had been a trying one because the class schedule and curriculum was set up for the new school, which we did not move into until April 1st. Intramural class tournaments increased the interest of the boys and made possible a more successful year. The basketball tournaments were held after school during March. Although the regular basketball team was not allowed to participate, the seniors carried off the championship.

Seniors Claim Distinction As 100th Graduating Class

The senior class of 1965, the hundredth graduating class in the history of the school, in its four years at University High School has accomplished more than meets the eye. It has not only carried out the old traditions of the school, but it has initiated new ones. As freshmen, this class gave the post Class Night dance outside on the campus. Since then, all of the following classes have adopted this plan. As Sophomores, the class arranged to have pictures taken of the couples who attended the Winter Formal. This had previously been done only at Prom. In their junior year, they revived the old tradition of choosing a Prom queen. When seniors, the class used a new and different approach concerning the Senior Assembly. Instead of putting on a skit, as was done in former years, the members of this class gave speeches informing the underclassmen of the various customs and traditions of the school.

As the high school work became more and more geared toward preparation for college, this class wondered, as it struggled through innumerable tests and exams, whether any other class was so involved with the problems and worries of the future as this one was.

One of the most memorable events for this class was the opportunity to be seniors in both the old U High and the new one; its members are indeed lucky to have memories of both University Highs.

It is virtually impossible to measure the "great" times that this class has experienced during the past four years. Probably the most important thing they have discovered while attending U. H. S. was that by giving a little time and work to the school, they received much more in return.

Juniors Devote Much of Year to Arranging Prom

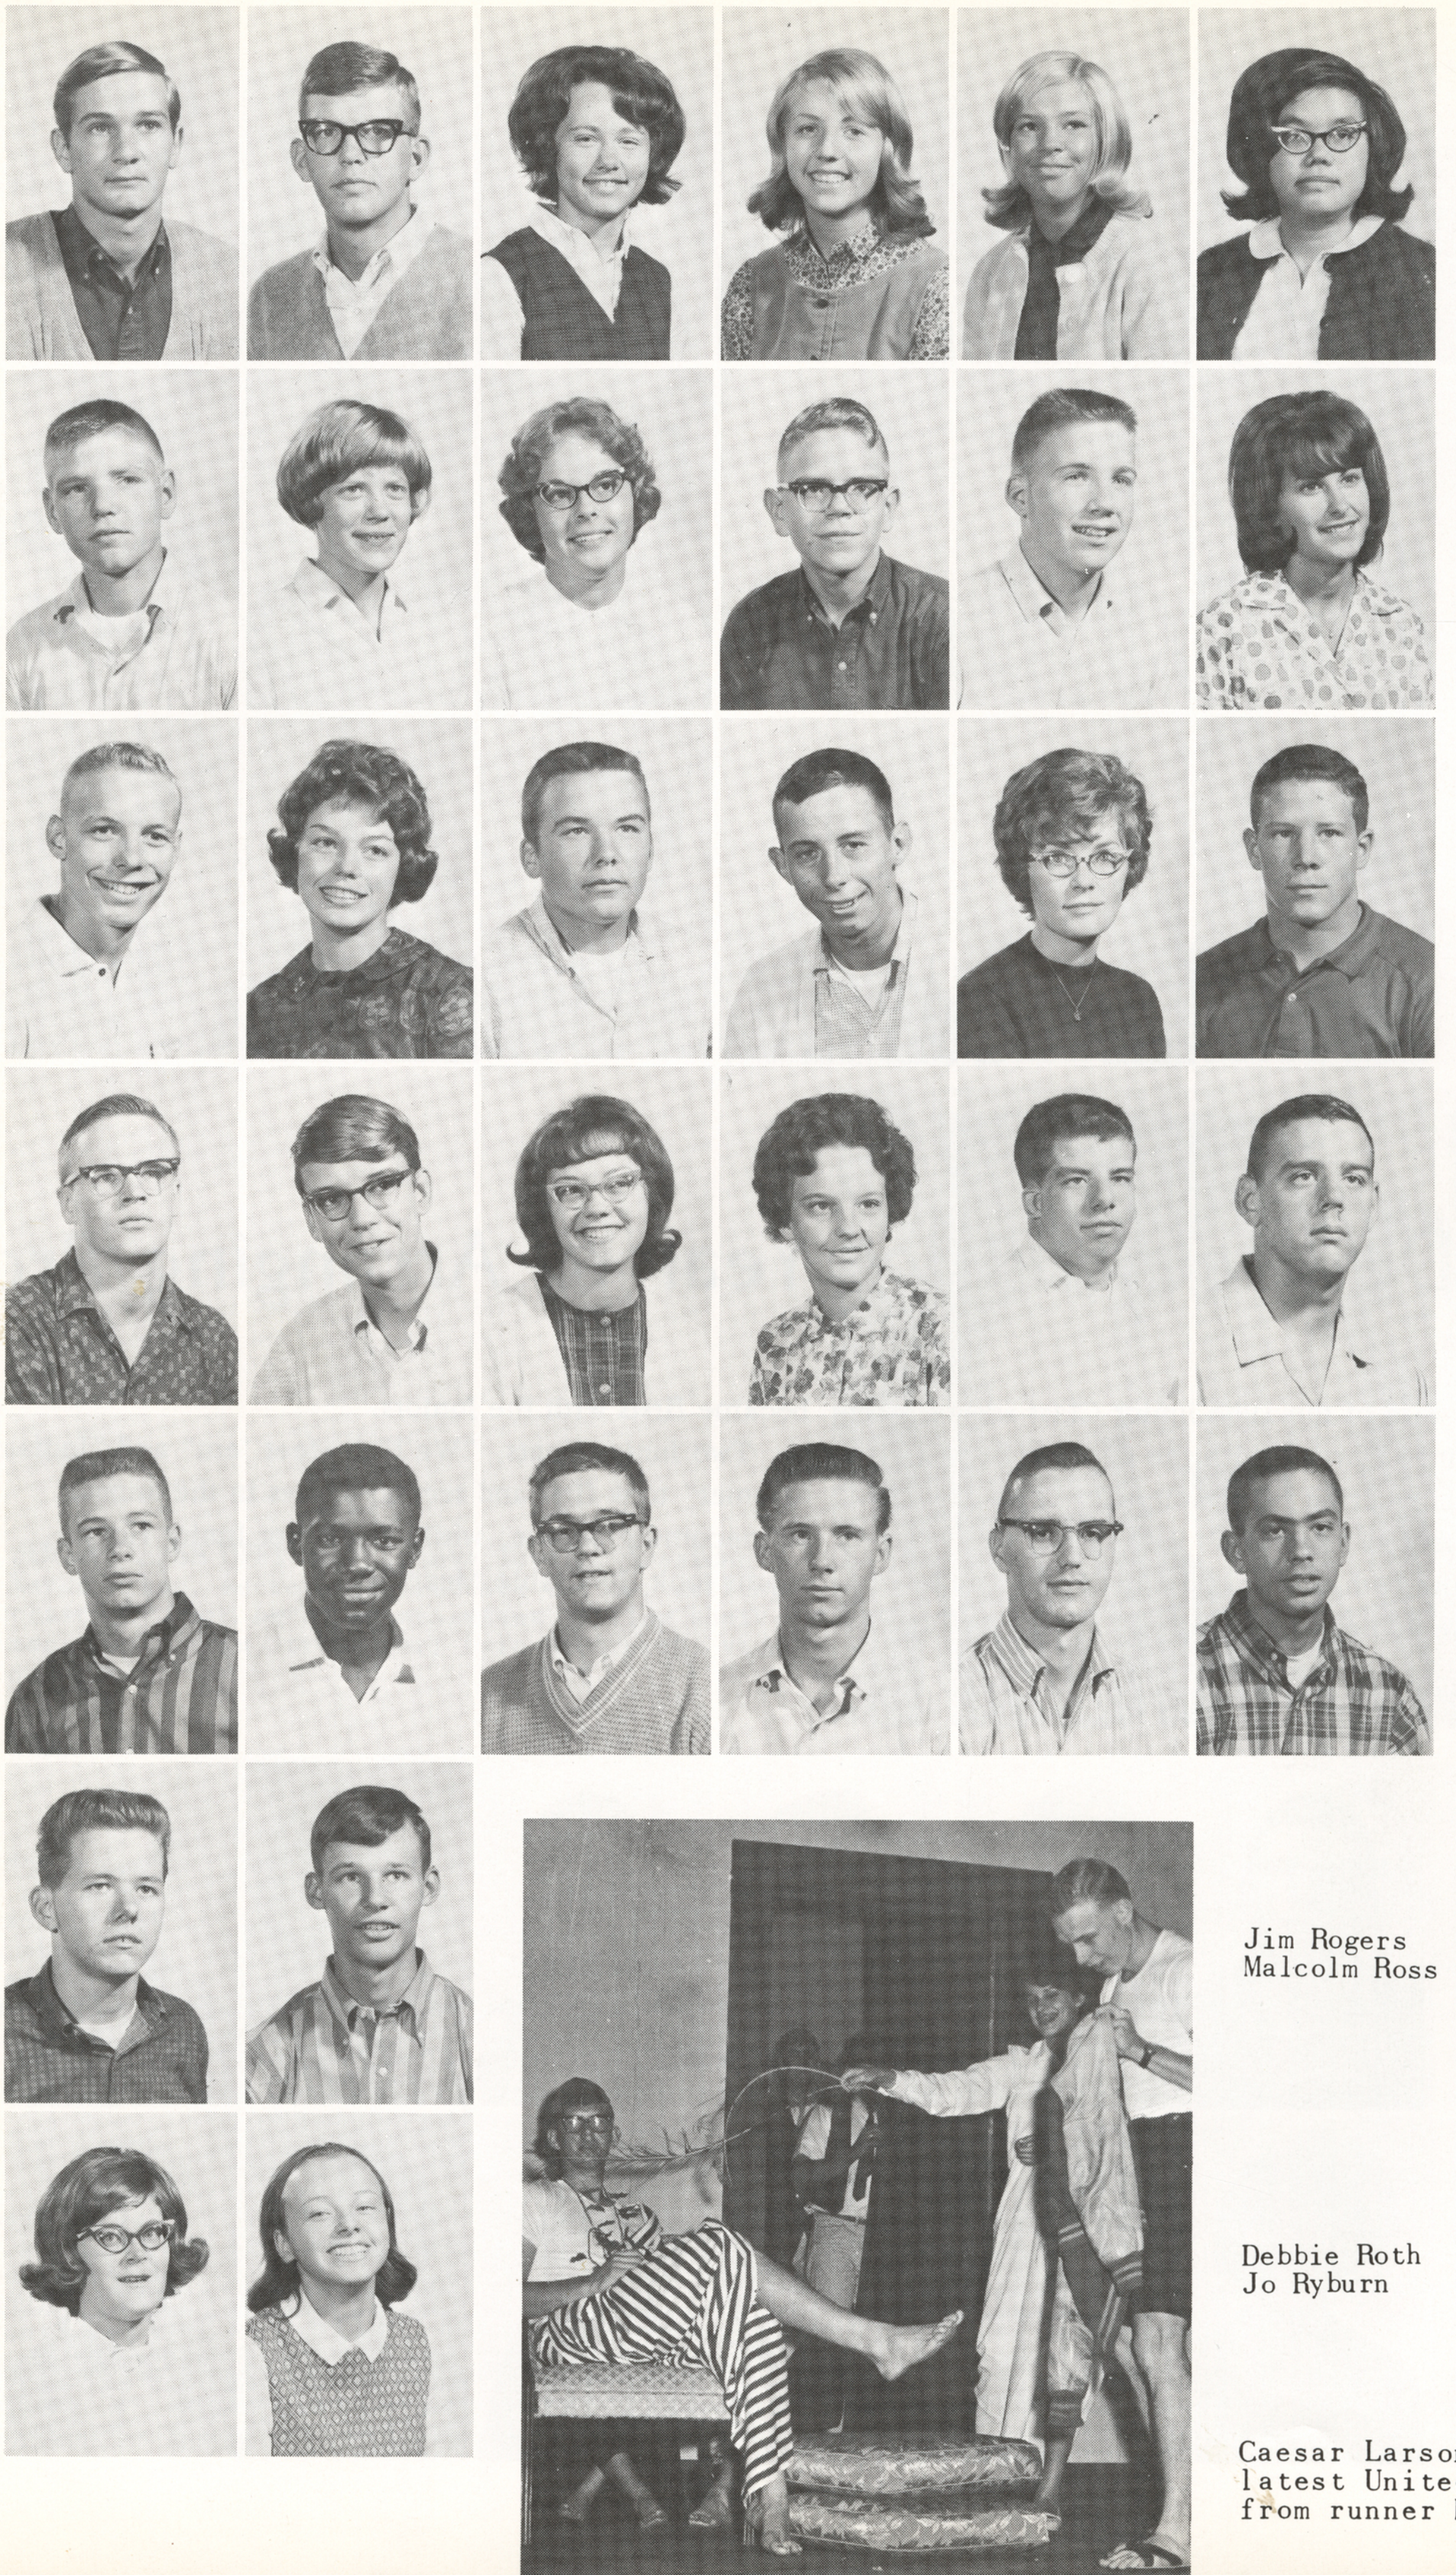

The major aim of the 1965 Junior Class was to raise money for Prom. Starting with the decorations early in the year, the production line came to a finish May 29 when they presented "Neptune's Palace" for the Class of '65. Electing both a king and a queen for the Prom and reading the Senior Class prophesy at the banquet became firsts with the Juniors.

Two Junior floats, "We'll de-feet 'em" and "Indian Simmer" took first and second places in the annual Homecoming parade, while two other Junior Homerooms took Honorable Mention.

First place in the United Fund Drive went clearly to the Class of 1967 this year. They managed to scrape up $142.14 by the close of the drive, $44.00 of this grand total being made in a bake sale. Second-place freshmen were topped by $58.84.

Sophomores worked diligently for weeks in advance and came out with a good product in the Winter Formal. "Fantasy in Snowflakes" was the dance theme. The atmosphere was pleasing after a hectic exam week.

Rousing spirit was displayed by these students on all occasions. Sophomores could always be heard letting off steam during pep assemblies and other athletic events.

The class of 1968 started out the year with a bang, showing the upperclassmen that their bite is worse than their bark.

In the race for the United Fund Drive, the Freshmen raised enough money to get second place. A survey of the Honor Rolls showed that during the first semester the Freshmen ranked second only to the Seniors.

One thing can be said about the Freshman Class; they are not prejudiced. This is the first time in seven years that a girl has filled the office of class president.

Youth for Christ, Y. F. C., had its first year of activities at University High School. Besides the year-long task of getting organized, the club had time for several meetings with guest speakers.

The hobby clubs, Stamp and Coin Club and Chess Club, met regularly to pursue their hobbies.

Science Club members worked on their projects individually again this year. Barbara France and Bob Belshe, both juniors, were awarded the Blanche McAvoy Award for achievement in science.

Young Citizens of Central Illinois, Y. C. C. I., had many guest speakers at their meetings again this year. As in past years, the club also took an active part in the Twin City Great Decisions program.

This year proved a busy one for German Club members. Meeting bi-monthly, they enjoyed movies, slides, and filmstrips about Germany and the German people. They also gave various talks on the culture of the country. A German banquet was held in March featuring a typical German menu. George Overbeck headed the group as president, Bob Ogren was vice president, and Kris Moreland served as secretary.

Spanish Club was also active this year. President Dick Templeton and Secretary-Treasurer Martha Goetsch were in command. In order to learn more about Spanish speaking people, the members saw slides and filmstrips of Mexico and Spain. They also enjoyed a club picnic in the fall and a Spanish Christmas party.

While German, Spanish Clubs Learn Alien Ways

French Club kept in step with the international view of the French people. This year, business meetings were replaced by social events. The first party consisted of a weenie roast and a hayrack ride and ended in the singing of French songs. Also, a party was held during the "Bon Noel" season. At this party, the members amused themselves with French games, songs, and treats. Although there was no banquet this year, the general feeling was "Vive La France."

For the first time in twelve years, the Latin Club did not have the annual Roman Banquet. The banquet, long established as a tradition, was dropped this year due to lack of interest in the club. Although there was no banquet, the club did hold regular meetings as in former years.

GERMAN CLUB - Bob Bradshaw, Everett Lueck, Sue Polley, Mike Polley, Bill Kohlmeyer, Turid Fosby, Kris Moreland, Mr. Fuehrer, George Overbeck.

A weiner roast, an all-school party, and a banquet were the main activities of FHA. Topping the year was a weekend in Chicago where they viewed a play and the planetarium and lived through a riotous slumber party. The officers were Lavetta Meyer, Patty Conklin, Kay Ijams, and Linda Meeker.

With June Hawthorne, Ellen Bower, and Jo Ryburn in command, FBLA members learned of job opportunities through skits and speakers. The club was represented by its officers at the intercity meeting and the state convention. Besides these activities, members also enjoyed a Christmas bowling party.

Industrial Arts Club, D.O. Students Find Work

Diversified Occupations, sponsored by Mr. Sharp of Normal Community, serves the purpose of training students for jobs and, at the same time, it enables them to earn high school credits. After going to school in the morning, students work at such jobs as printing and cosmetology in the afternoon. This year there were four students in DO.

Industrial Arts Club is sponsored by Mr. Herberts. This year, students spent extra time making paper weights for the teachers.

D. O. (diversified occupations) students Dorcia Beland, Ron Byrne, Jim Rogers, and Debbie Brown learn work skills through on-the-job experience.

PEP CLUB - BOTTOM ROW: Colette Armstrong, Kari Ijams, Nancy Rosenthal, Sue Ingold, Ann Lyman, Sarah Strayer, Vivian Collie, Marsha Schaab, Nancy Steele, Mary Nelson, Susie Evans, Sara Romersberger. U Club Athletes Are Rooted On by Pep Club

Signs and hoops have kept the Pep Club busy this year.

After winning the Intercity title, a large green and gold "Intercity Champs" sign was made and displayed in the hall near the trophy case. This sign was also on display at the CBC championship game.

At home games our players ran through paper hoops with green U's on them. These hoops were the result of much effort on the part of members of the Pep Club.

Led by President Bob Hayden, the members of U Club spent the year participating in their various sports rather than doing any activities as a group. Their one main activity was to hold the annual initiation.

U CLUB - BOTTOM ROW: Randy Freedlund, Dave Raney, Tom Douglass, Bob Hayden, Mark Hubbard, Ken Reeder, Jim Coatney, Preston Hawks. Miller, Eric Larson, Ron Hage.

Although the Pioneers won many a victory this year, they couldn't have done it without the enthusiasm and team backing provided by the twelve lively girls who led U High in cheers.

Varsity cheerleaders were Linda Ensign, captain, Becky Laubaugh, Pam Tebrugge, Ann Lyman, Rachel Laubaugh, and alternate Margaret Tebrugge. Frosh-Soph cheerleaders were Emily Romersberger, Nancy Rosenthal, Vivian Collie and Sue Wall. Mary Nelson, Sara Romersberger and Grace Eckert made up the freshman squad.

Band, directed by Mr. Robert Whited, tunes up for another hour of practice. This rehearsal was in preparation for the winter concert.

Band Members Make Fine Contest Showing

The U. High band rehearsed tirelessly to put on some fine performances this year. The music was made interesting and enjoyable to play by Mr. Whited and a host of student teachers. With Drum Major David Swarm in the lead, the marching band presented two half time shows during the football season. There was excited anticipation among the members about the impressive band room and music facilities in the new building. The eighth graders from Metcalf joined our concert band to put on a program for the purpose of drumming up enthusiasm among the incoming freshmen. We can be proud of the showing the U. High band made in our Homecoming Parade, the ISU Homecoming Parade, and the Normal Halloween Parade.

The '64-'65 band had twelve entries in the annual solo and ensemble music contest which was held at Canton High School. The entries and their awards are as follows: trumpet duet, superior; trombone duet, excellent; flute solo, excellent; flute quartet, superior; drum duet, superior; French horn solo, superior; a second French horn solo, excellent; oboe duet, superior; saxophone duet, excellent; baton solo, excellent; marimba solo, superior; tuba solo, excellent. As can be seen, U. High made an exceptional showing at Canton.

Plans to provide the band with some new, interesting activities have been begun, under the direction of Mr. Whited. This year's officers were President Dick Templeton, Vice President Paul Nelson, Secretary Paula Griffith, and Historian Steve Dewalt. Judging from what has been accomplished this year, the '65-'66 term promises to be educational as well as enjoyable for our music makers.

Under the direction of a student teacher, orchestra members perform at the spring concert.

Orchestra Conductors Switch at Midyear

This has been as much a year of change for U High's orchestra as it has been for the whole school. The first semester under the direction of Mr. Kuntz was highlighted by the Winter Concert which featured a piece for two concert violins. The concerto parts were played by Mary Kuntz, Lesley Manring, Narda Cisco, and Carol Dallinger. At the end of the program, the audience sang Christmas carols to the accompaniment of the orchestra.

The second semester marked a change in conductors. Mr. Duncan Miller, formerly of NCHS, took over the post as director of the orchestra. Practicing for the competition in the state contest occupied many hours of the musicians' time during the early part of the semester, but the results were gratifying. Three violinists earned superior ratings: Carol Dallinger and Lesley Manring for their solos, and a trio consisting of Carol, Lesley, and Narda Cisco.

Four violinists were representatives at District All-State Orchestra -- Narda Cisco, Barbara Bell, Mary Kuntz, and Carol Dallinger. As a result of the tryouts at District, Carol was selected to participate in Illinois All-State Orchestra where she achieved third chair.

The transition for the orchestra came with the move to the new school. The new instruments and practice rooms awaited the arrival of the musicians.

Spring Concert marked the end of the year's public appearances for University High School orchestra.

Choruses Sing Songs From Bach to Gershwin

Chorus, conducted by Mr. Miller, has been divided into three forms this year--mixed girls', and advanced. Working on numbers varying from classic chorales to show tunes, mixed chorus ran across many interesting techniques and styles. A very unique example of this is "Bourre" written by John Sebastian Bach, which is Bach's original music set to jazz and accompanied by a bass fiddle and drums. It was at first a little tricky to learn how to sing 18th century music with a 20th century twist to it. Being a large organization, the mixed chorus could handle show tunes such as "My Fair Lady" and "Porgy and Bess." On the other hand, girls' chorus and advanced chorus could better sing ensemble numbers, being small in number. Singing religious and Broadway music was their main interest this year. All three of these groups sang in programs given by the music department throughout the year. After Christmas vacation, Mr. Miller was faced with preparing and sending capable persons to the state music contest in March. It was good for those who went to return with nothing but first and second place medals. All this was ended on a happy note by the choruses joining with the band and orchestra to go on a picnic for a relaxing day at Lake of the Woods.

Drum majors are hard to come by at U High. This year, however, U High was lucky to have a well qualified drum major, Dave Swarm. Dave and the five majorettes worked hard on routines for each show and parade. A climax to the season was Becky Johnson's fire baton solo in which she almost set the grass on fire.

The arrival of new majorette uniforms late in the season was a sign of even better things to come.

For the first time, an A. F. S. student served on the speech team which represented U High. Turid Fosby won a first place in the state tournament over representatives of over 600 schools with her original oration. Extemporaneous speaker Barry Bartrum won a third place in the state, giving the Pioneers a fifth place standing.

The team began winning with a third place tie at the Bloomington Invitational Tourney. From that, they proceeded to first place standings at the district and sectional meets.

Highlight of the debating team's year was a fifth place ranking at the Sectional Tournament. Team points also ran high at ISU and Augustana invitational tournaments. Outstanding debater of the year was Barry Bartrum.

Most of the time spent by the Harlequin-Thespian troupe was in the preparation and production of plays. However, the group still had time for guest speakers and planned activities at the monthly meetings. The club also initiated a new tradition, the fall dramatics picnic.

New Production Method Eases Clarion Work

Yearbook layout gets its final revision by editor Patty Brooks.

The use of a new method of production cut hours from the time usually required to put out the yearbook this year. However, the staff was still plagued with lost copy, fuzzy pictures, and an endless number of ads to sell.

The result of the long hours of work the editors and staffs put into the book is the 1965 Clarion. Almost all of the work and financing the book was done by the students themselves, in extra-curricular work after school.

Mr. Templeton acted as advisor for the group again this year, in addition to his job as sponsor of the school newspaper, the Clarionette.

Marcia McConnell, newspaper editor, studies the results of her latest efforts--the new Clarionette.

Improvement of the news coverage by widening the fields of interest has been this year's goal for the Clarionette. Such coverage included national events, campus activities, and interviews with teachers and students. In addition, a special feature of school gossip and jokes was put together to make "Grace Notes."

The importance of the feature stories was dominated by the new school. The main object of including reports in each issue was to keep the student informed on the progress and the latest date set for the students to bid a final farewell to the old U. High. The photographers also made the new school their paramount issue.

Facilities in the new building promise to make next year an even better one for our newspaper.

Council Members Start Year with Homecoming

Business proceeds as usual at the last Council meeting in the old building.

Long hours, hard work, and a sprinkling of filibusters were the daily diet of the Student Council. These politicians of the 1964-65 Council were led by Jack Iungerich, president; Grace Harwood, vice president; Linda Lyman, secretary; and Sarah Walker, treasurer.

Intense committee work was typical of a homecoming celebration which began the Council's year. Both a dance and a parade were Council sponsored.

Sophomores forged ahead to first place in the United Fund Drive. With means such as bake sales and car washes the inter-class competition netted a sum of $369. 52. The sophomores raised $142.

Warrants of arrest were used as a part of the AFS (American Field Service) Week. Popular among the student body were the faculty-student basketball game, telegram day, and class tug-of-war. A total of $1, 300 was needed to bring a foreign student to U High. A portion of this money came from the selling of friendship stock.

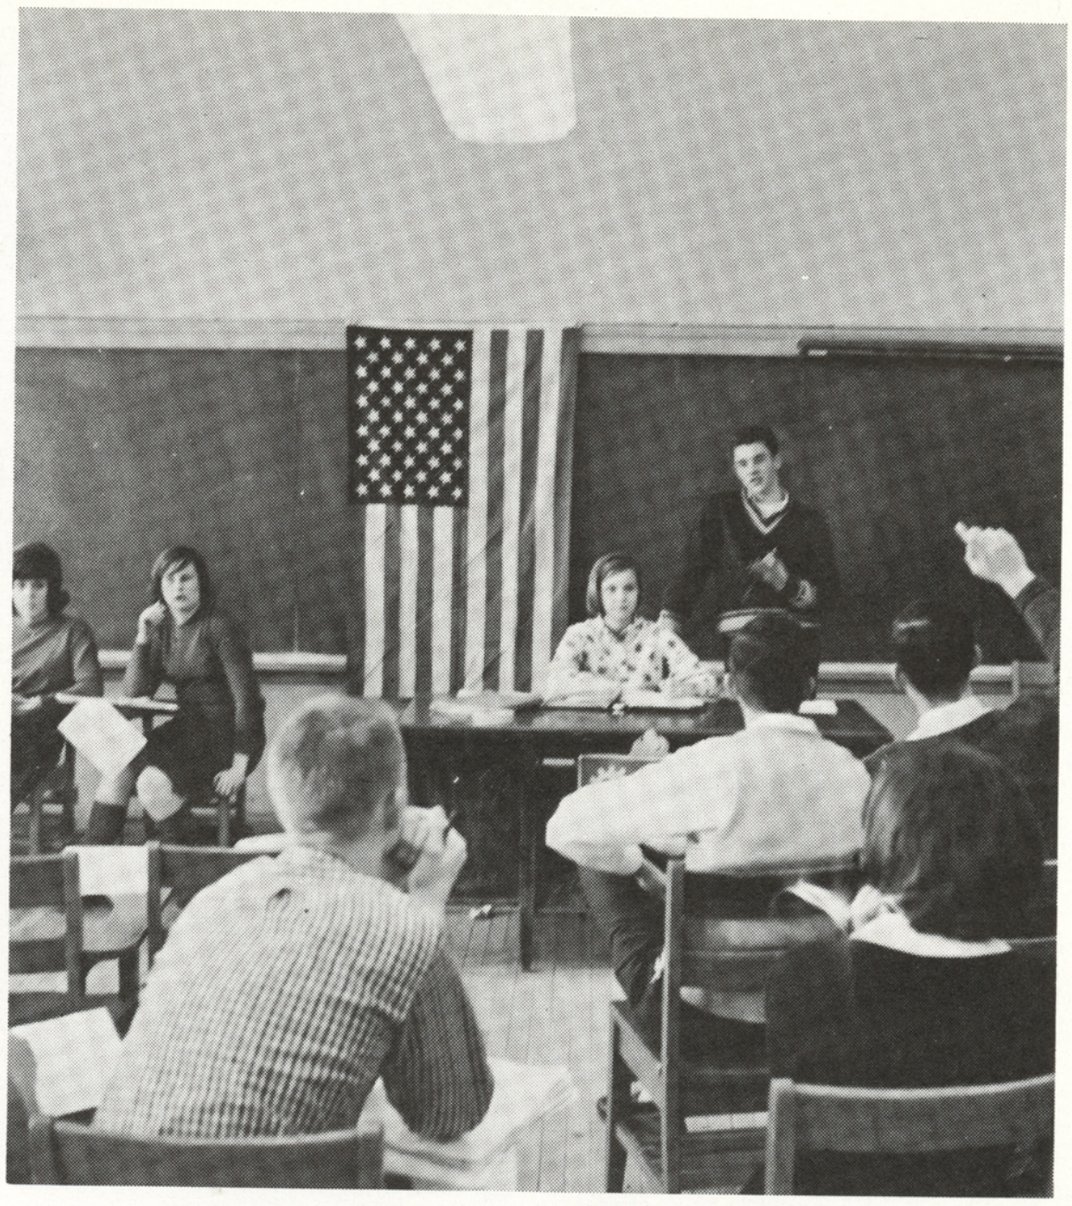

Council discussion included revised study hall rules, an attendance amendment, and a proposed student exchange with Western High of Macomb.

Intercity Council meeting and visitation were also on the agenda of the Council officers and members.

In March and April, Council members were involved with the move to the new building. A meeting was held there to acquaint the representatives with the school, and they, in turn, served as guides for their homerooms.

Basketballers Gain Corn Belt Championship

Good players, conditioning, an excellent coach. These are a few of the things needed for an outstanding basketball team. This year, U High had just that.

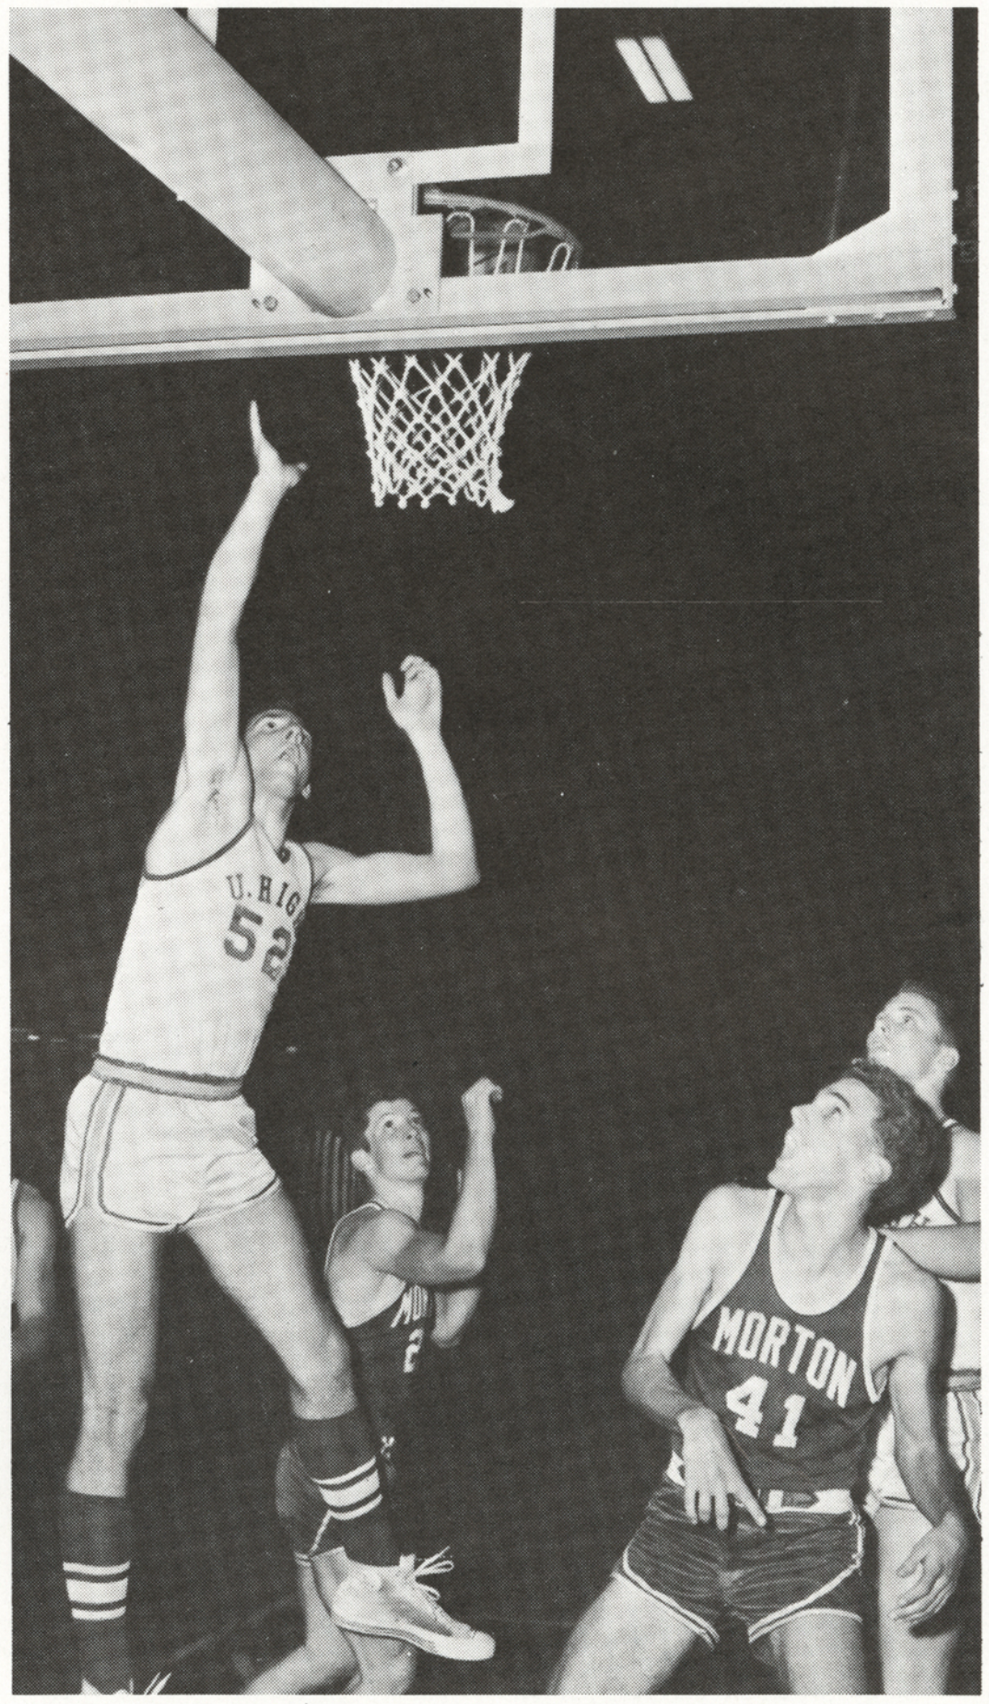

As far as good players are concerned, we had a total of four Corn Belt Conference All Stars, as well as three Intercity All Stars. The outstanding player, who was voted Most Valuable at the end of the season by his teammates, was Bernie Lewis. He compiled a season point total of 385 points in 24 games. The leader in the scoring column, however, was Tom Taulbee, with 417.

Conditioning and desire were shown to be one of the team's strong points in the Washington-U High game for the Corn Belt championship. The lead changed hands many times during the contest. Then came those final few moments when the game was to be decided. With only a few ticks of the clock remaining and the U High five trailing by one point, we called time out. The play was set, the ball thrown in to Tom Taulbee, and he, in turn, put it through the net from twenty feet away. Victory was ours, and so was the C. B. C. trophy.

Other highlights of the season were winning the Kankakee Consolation trophy and the victory over Bloomington by the score of 58-42. We also beat Normal twice for the fourth straight year.

Senior letter winners were Bob Hayden, Steve Lovelass, Tom Taulbee, Dave Brown, Dave Greeness, and Mark Lantz.

Returning lettermen include Norm Nierstheimer, Cal Hubbard, Jim Hodge, and Eric Larson.

Undefeated Frosh-Soph Brighten Cage Future

Proof that U High will continue her winning ways on the hardwood was exhibited by the Frosh-Soph squad. This team ran up an impressive string of victories without a defeat. Among these victories was a smashing romp over Delavan for the Hartsburg-Emden Tourney title. Featuring a potent fast break, a steam roller offense, and balanced scoring, Coach Chiodo's boys ran up many huge margins. The squad won most of its games in the final part of their season virtually without the services of top scorers Cal Hubbard and Norm Nierstheimer. Both moved up to the varsity squad. Other top performers were Gary Eaton, Rob Lantz, Roger Hage, Mike Wiant, and freshman Kent Taulbee.

Cheerleaders rouse the team and fans to another victory.

Pioneers are great! That seemed to be the general feeling of the entire school as the U. High eleven finished its best season in many years.

This was the first time that Coach Frank Chiodo had taken over the reins as head football coach, and as the season ended, his team had put up quite a battle for the Corn Belt Championship. The final record for the team was five wins, two losses, and one tie.

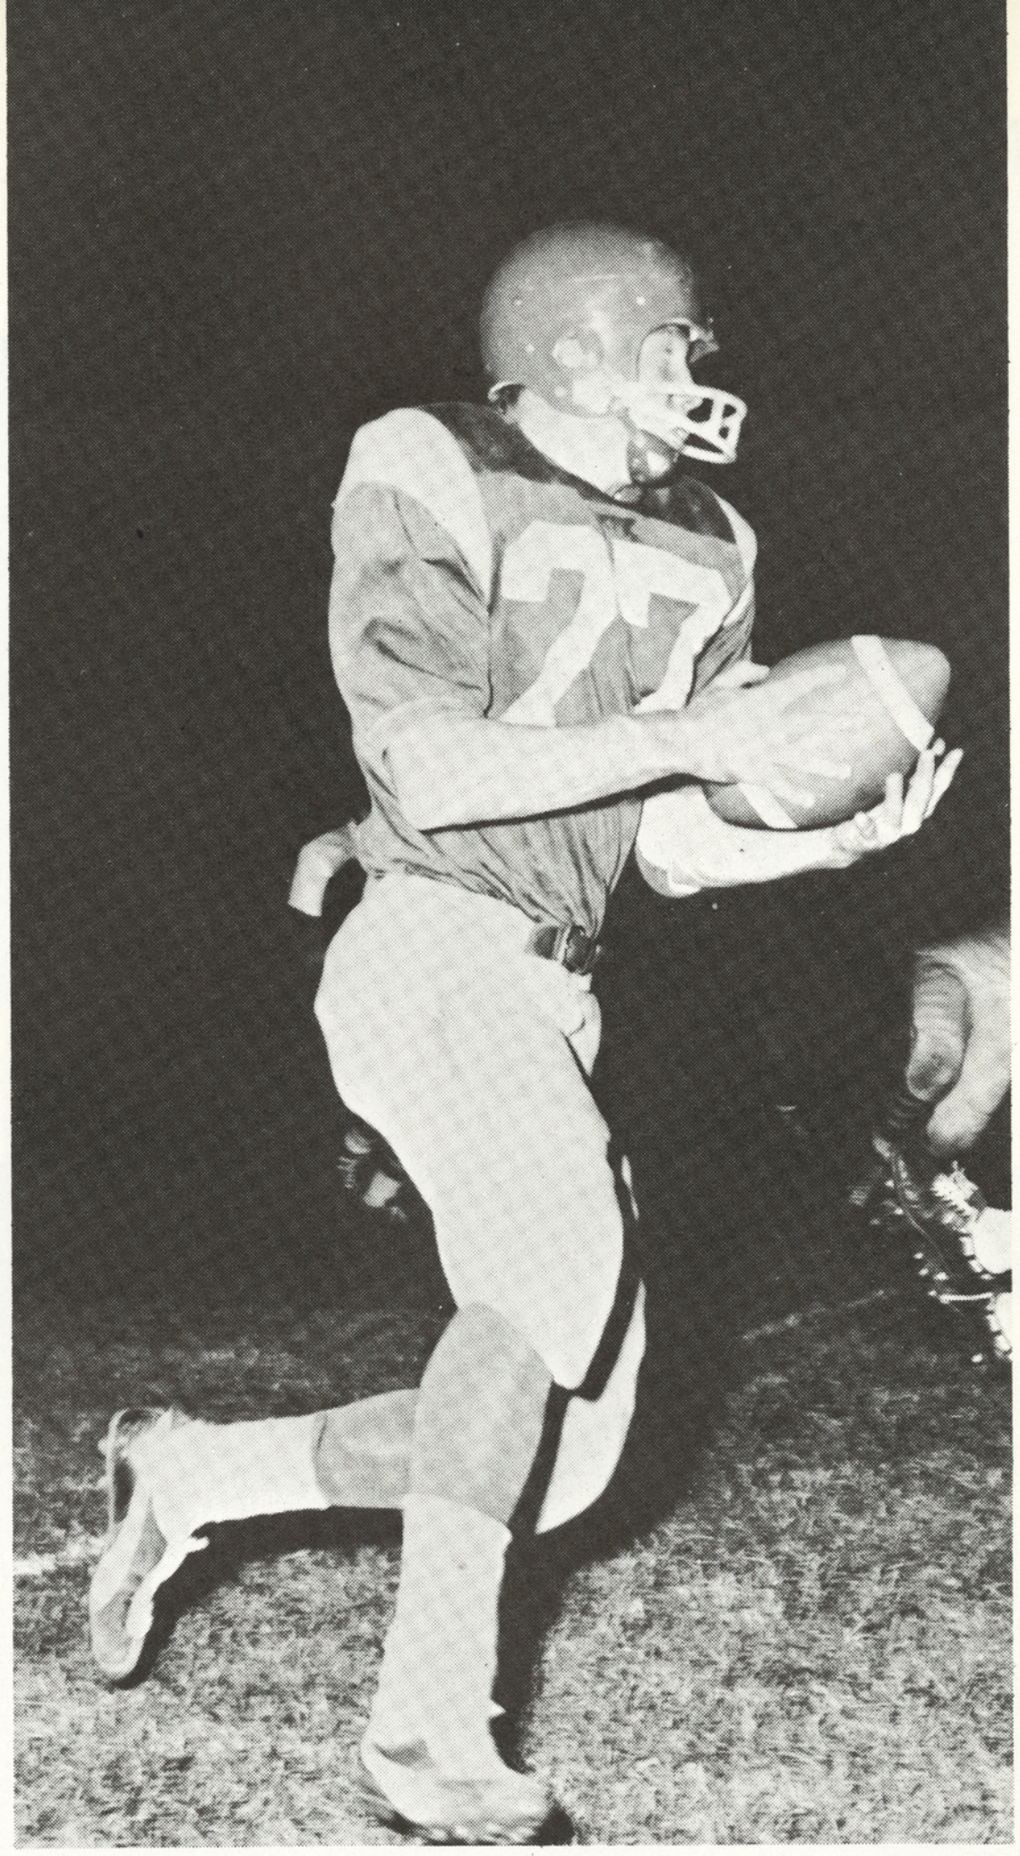

One of the losses was, however, to arch-rival Normal Community by the score of 20-9. After the first half, U. High led by the narrow margin of 9-0, but the last half spelled defeat.

The only other defeat came at the hands of Intercity foe, Bloomington, on the victors' field. At the end of the first half, the two teams went to the locker rooms with the score tied at 0-0. But again the last half was disastrous, and Bloomington won by the score of 20-7.

Steve Lovelass and Bob Hayden were selected most valuable players by the team, and Dale Neal and Ken Philpot were elected co-captains for next year's season.

Seniors receiving letters were John Baker, Mike Byerline, Fred Gehrt, Dave Greeness, Bob Hayden, Tom Jacobs, Mark Lantz, Steve Lovelass, Ken Miller, Ron L. Miller, Dave Raney, and Dick Templeton.

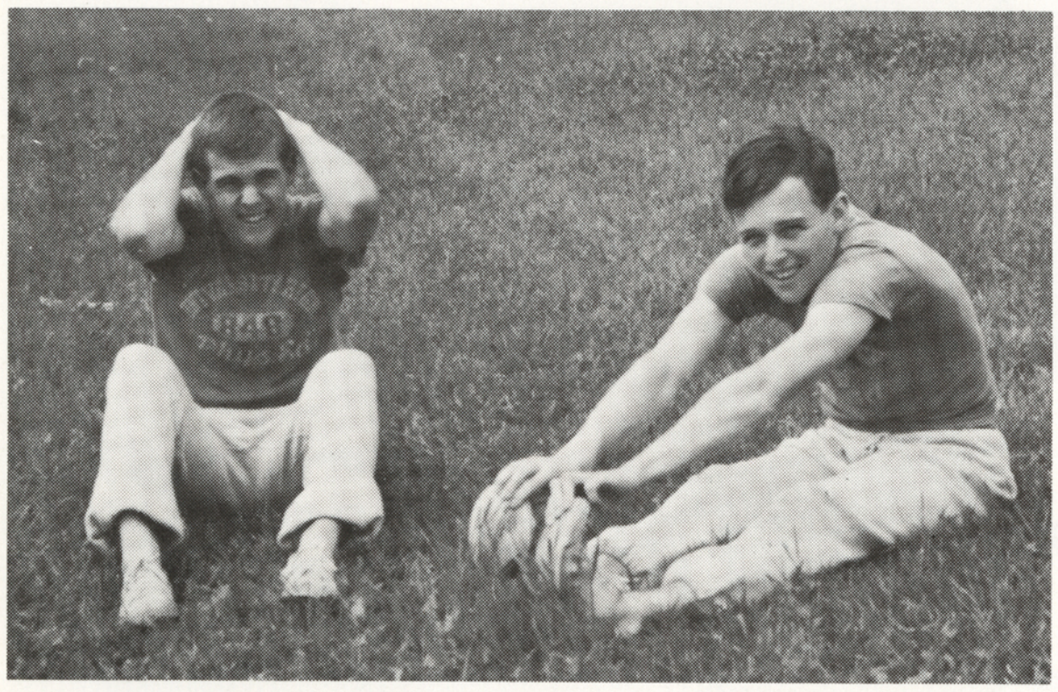

Returning lettermen are Jim Coatney, Ron Goben, Ron Hage, Jim Huson, Phil Jarke, Dale Neal, Richard Phillips, Ken Philpot, and Cal Hubbard.

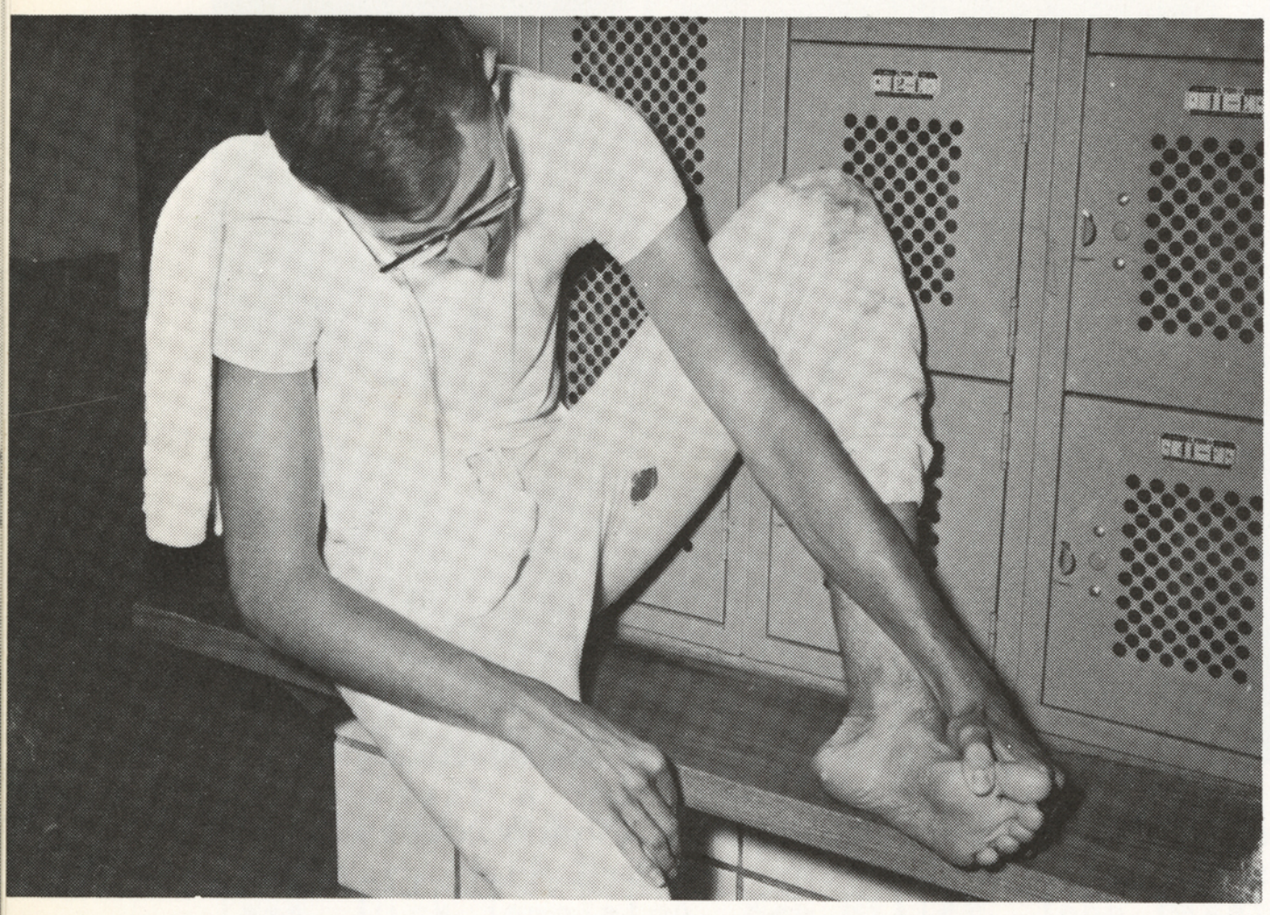

Nothing can stop Pioneer Mike Mogg as he slips past the Maroons for a first down. The Pioneers took home a 20-0 victory.

It took two opponents to bring Bob Hayden down in the Clinton game, as it did all season. Dale Neal gets up to make another block if necessary.

Cross Country Enters UHS Athletic Curriculum

Mike Legg and Dave Brown warm up for a grueling practice session.

This year a new sport, cross country, made its debut at U High. Cross country is an event like track, which tests both speed and endurance. About twenty boys reported for practice at the ISU golf course in the fall. Four meets were scheduled with nearby schools, and the conference meet was held at Normal. Although the harriers failed to win a meet, Coach Metcalf expects a better showing in '65. Denny Stuart led the team this year with Mike Legg or Dave Brown usually second. Sophomore Mike Wiant showed good form and should be the pillar for next year's team. All four of these boys lettered, and Stuart, in addition to Wiant, will return next fall. For the first year, the team made a good showing, and cross country should become an established U High athletic activity.

Working out for a meet, Denny Stuart and Mike Wiant sprint around the campus.

Jr. Pioneers 8-2-1

The junior Pioneer football teams, Freshmen and Frosh-Soph, together enjoyed an 8-2-1 season in 1964. Frosh-Sophs were handed the only defeats at the hands of Bloomington and Clinton. The Chiddix game resulted in the only tie.

A 19-0 victory over Trinity and a 19-13 victory over Normal Community gave the young Pioneers second place in the Intercity competition. The mid-season loss to Clinton represented the only Corn Belt defeat for the team.

Coach Jim Scott led the teams all season. All games were played on the enemy fields.

From the whole squad of twenty-seven boys, seventeen were awarded freshman numerals. These boys were Les Armes, Dan Bates, Eric Bates, Ted Bradshaw, Roger Donovan, Robert Eft, Dan Gould, Paul Harbaugh, Mark Harris, Don Hopkins, Vince Lott, Richard Miller, Jim Mitchell, Jack Neal, Mike Polley, Jack Roberts, Fred Schoening.

Young Matmen Give Good Outlook for '66

Eric Bates struggles to pin his opponent to the mat.

John Massengale's first year as wrestling coach proved successful as the season closed with a fine 7-8 record. Perhaps the most outstanding team win was over newly crowned Corn Belt champs, Trinity.

A consistent winner, Senior Dave Raney compiled a total of 59 points throughout the season. John Baker and Ed Deutsch also turned in fine performances. Third places in the district were earned by Dale Neal and Randy Freedlund. Randy won a first and was the only Pioneer to advance to the sectional.

As almost half of the team was composed of freshmen, the outlook for U. High wrestling is good.

District - Sixth place

Despite their constant rivalry with the wrestling team, the U High tankmen compiled a 5-8 season record with two individual records being set. Steve Graves, a promising sophomore, gained the new backstroke record of 1:09.1. U High can look forward to a better team in '66 with the return of Graves and other fine underclassmen.

Outstanding performances were also turned in by Captains Mark Hubbard and Jack Iungerich with Mike Legg helping out in the freestyle. Rilett and the medley team were the only qualifiers for the district; both placed sixth.

With the return of some promising underclassmen, the future looks bright for U High golfers. His best score was turned in at Clinton's course, site of the Corn Belt Conference, when he shot a 36-39-75.

Lettermen were seniors Bob Ogren, Scott Neeley, Russ Middleton, and Bill Loeseke. Others were sophomore Rusty Myers and freshman Jack Roberts.

In the district final against Normal, the Pioneers had scoring chances, as reflected in the tension on the bench.

Glimpses of bright green and gold pins and shakers were the first harbingers of Homecoming, 1964. As the anticipated weekend approached, the excitement rose to its highest peak.

"When's the parade going to start?" was on the tip of everyone's tongue as well wishers and spectators crowded around the floats. The shrill of the drum major's whistle finally sounded above the commotion, and the parade officially began. Competition for prizes was keen, but a junior float, "We'll De-Feat 'Em", came out on top. Ron Mentzer's feet endured repeated guillotining in order to achieve first place. However, Ron's torture was in vain as the Pontiac Indians held our Pioneers to a 7-7 tie.

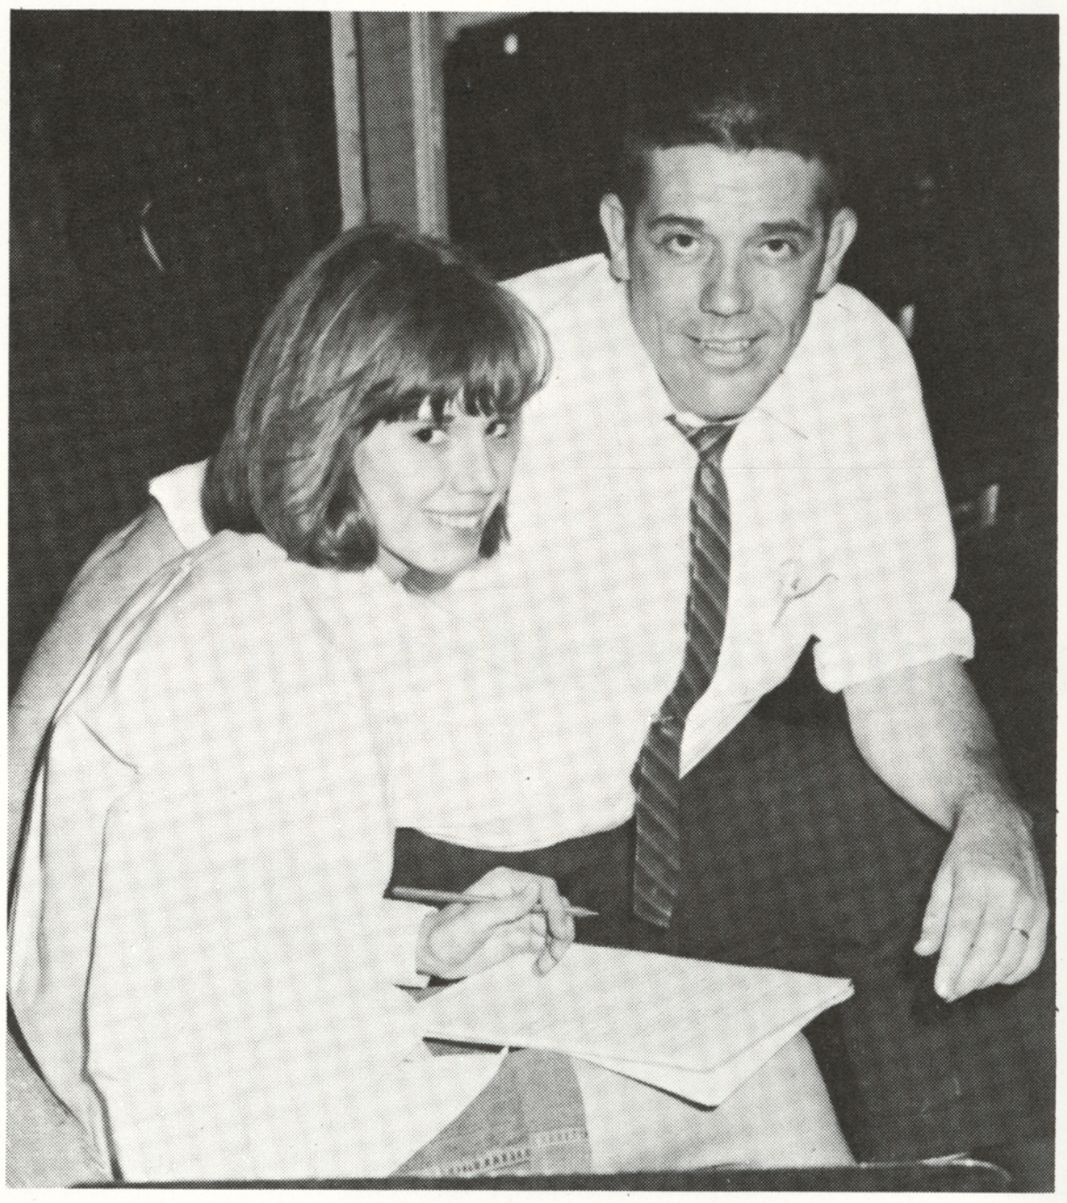

Although many were exhausted from harrowing last minute work on floats, every couple summoned enough energy to dance to the music of Johnny Cranford and his orchestra at the Saturday night dance. "As Time Goes By," the theme of the dance, made seniors realize that next year they will be among the honored alumni.

Parade Honors Go to Industrious Juniors

'Ask Any Girl' Is First U High Production

The dramatics department ushered in its first production of the year with the comedy, "Ask Any Girl." The play was the first to be directed by new speech instructor, Mr. Connolly. "Ask Any Girl" is the story of a small town girl, Meg Wheeler, played by Lesley Manring, who ventures to the big city of New York to make a career for herself. After arriving, she seeks residence at the Madison Avenue Girls Hotel, where she meets a variety of characters. Ada (Patty Conklin) suggests she apply for a job at "D and D," a firm dealing in surveys. After meeting a rigid inspection by Miles Doughton (Terry Oltman), head of the firm, Meg is accepted. As the play continues, Meg feels she is falling in love with Evan Doughton (Mike Davidson), the younger brother of the firm. In the end, and to everyone's surprise, she marries Miles. Linda Cook, Vickie Demler, Lavetta Meyer, Allan Williams, and Tom Honn supplied the supporting comedy.

Sally Swarm tries learning her lines by writing them out, with the help of Mr. Connolly.

Beaming with pleasure, Meg Wheeler's parents and aunts view her husband-to-be, Miles Doughton.

Highlight of the fall play was a kiss between the major characters, played by Terry Oltman and Lesley Manring.

Everyone but Director Dick Larrabee looks unconcerned in the performance of ''Final Dress Rehearsal,'' a winter one-act.

Julie Steele, Edith Bryan, and Carol Fritcher argue over the location of an imaginary door--not yet provided by the boys in the scene shop.

Phil Shaw, as author of the play presented by a typical high school group, runs out in terror at what they have done to his masterpiece.

Terror grips the Secretary of State (Dick Larrabee) and the President (Allan Williams) when they learn of the power held by the tiny Duchy of Grand Fenwick.

Duchess Glorianna (Linda Cook) ponders the tremendous problems facing her tiny land.

Three one-act plays were featured for the winter production of the dramatics department. The first play, "The Ugly Duckling," was directed by Mr. Laurence Connolly. The other two plays were directed by students, an innovation at U High. Patty Conklin directed "The Devil and Tom Walker," a play adapted by Mr. Robert Brome of the U High English department. The play concerned the pitfalls of making arrangements with the devil. The third play, "Final Dress Rehearsal," was directed by Linda Cook. It portrayed the problems of presenting a high school play.

Another short play, "Theater of the Soul," directed by Mr. Connolly, represented U High at the contest play. It was a picture of the conflicting drives of a man, and how they affect his actions. The play received a second place in the district contest.

Linda Cook and Tom Honn had the leading roles in the spring play, "The Mouse That Roared," heading a giant cast of thirty-six. Patty Conklin and Lavetta Meyer had major supporting roles in this play of the little country of Grand Fenwick, and the problems which arise when their leader declares war on the U. S., and wins.

''Pick on somebody your own size!'' shouts Nana Brooks to U. S. jets as Patty Conklin warns her fellow Fenwickians of an air raid.

Sophomores Use Snowflakes for Decorations

A curtain of paper snowflakes was the means through which U High students entered A Fantasy in Snowflakes, the Winter Formal. Semester exam worries quickly floated away to the dance music of the Randy Deckwerth Orchestra. Sophomore workers were headed by the following committee chairmen: Bill Blomgren and Steve Hannie, program and tickets; Irene Hamilton, Paula Esworthy, and Rachel Laubaugh, decorations; Jeff Larson, entertainment; Emily Romersberger, invitations; Linc King, publicity.

The Winter Formal gives the sophomores good practice for next year's work on the Prom.

Twenty Join Honor Society During Year

Following an assembly and week of initiation, fourteen seniors were inducted into the National Honor Society. They were Patty Brooks, David Brown, Paula Griffith, Yvonne Hubbard, Mike Keeley, Mark Lantz, Mike Legg, Everett Lueck, Lavetta Meyer, Alison Miller, George Overbeck, Sarah Strayer, Dick Templeton, and Sarah Walker. Juniors elected in the spring were Carol Dallinger, Steve Dewalt, Jim Hodge, Dale Neal, Ken Philpot and Kathy Willis. Besides initiating new members, other activities included a spring picnic and the conducting of tours for Visitation Day.

Parties, Assemblies Provide Entertainment

All-school parties were constantly on the scene this year. Many of them were post-game parties celebrating success on the playing field. The Student Council sponsored the TWIRP dance, where the woman is requested to pay, the Student Council Election party which announced the newly elected officers, and the United Fund and AFS parties. The freshman class sponsored the annual Class Night party, the last of the year.

Through the first assembly, traditionally written and given by the senior class, the freshmen got a glimpse of high school life. Assemblies such as the AFS and United Fund stimulated class competition and increased contributions.

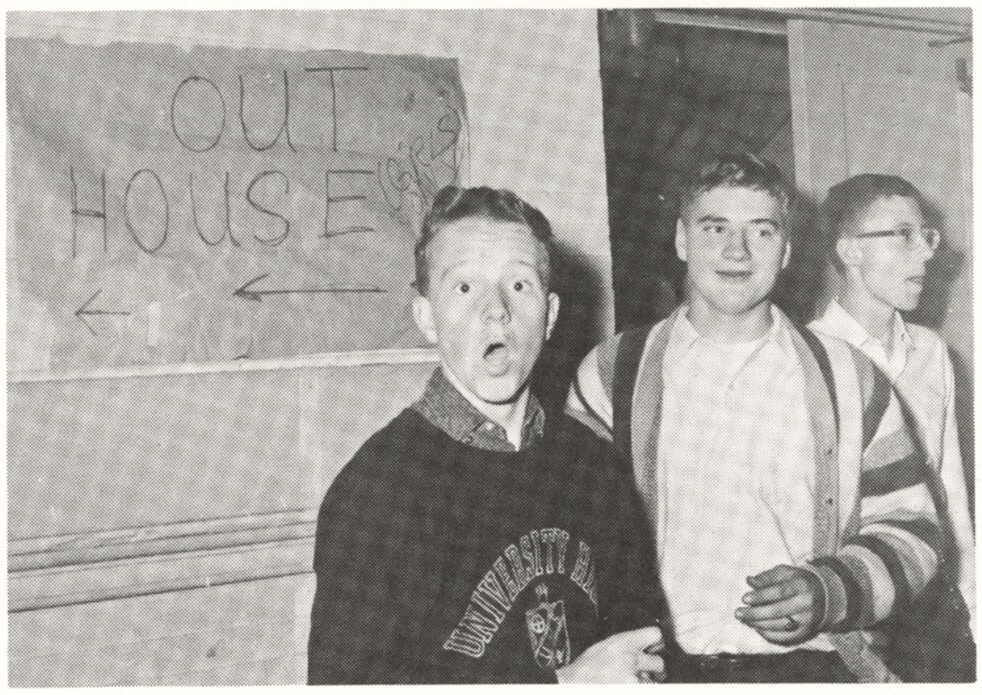

Candidates for the Homecoming court, cheerleading, and Student Council offices were introduced through assemblies. The Awards Day and Class Night assemblies finished out the year.

Turid Welcome Addition to U.S.

Being the American "sisters" of an AFS student is an experience which we will always value. More than just having another sister, it is living with a very special person from a different country. When she first arrived, we did not realize exactly how special Turid would become to us and all of U High. In one short year, she has become a friend to everyone. She has entered into many extra school activities through her interest in speech and dramatics. We only hope that future AFS families will be as lucky as ours.

Sincerely,
Linda and Ann Lyman

Enthusiasm Is Displayed During Elections

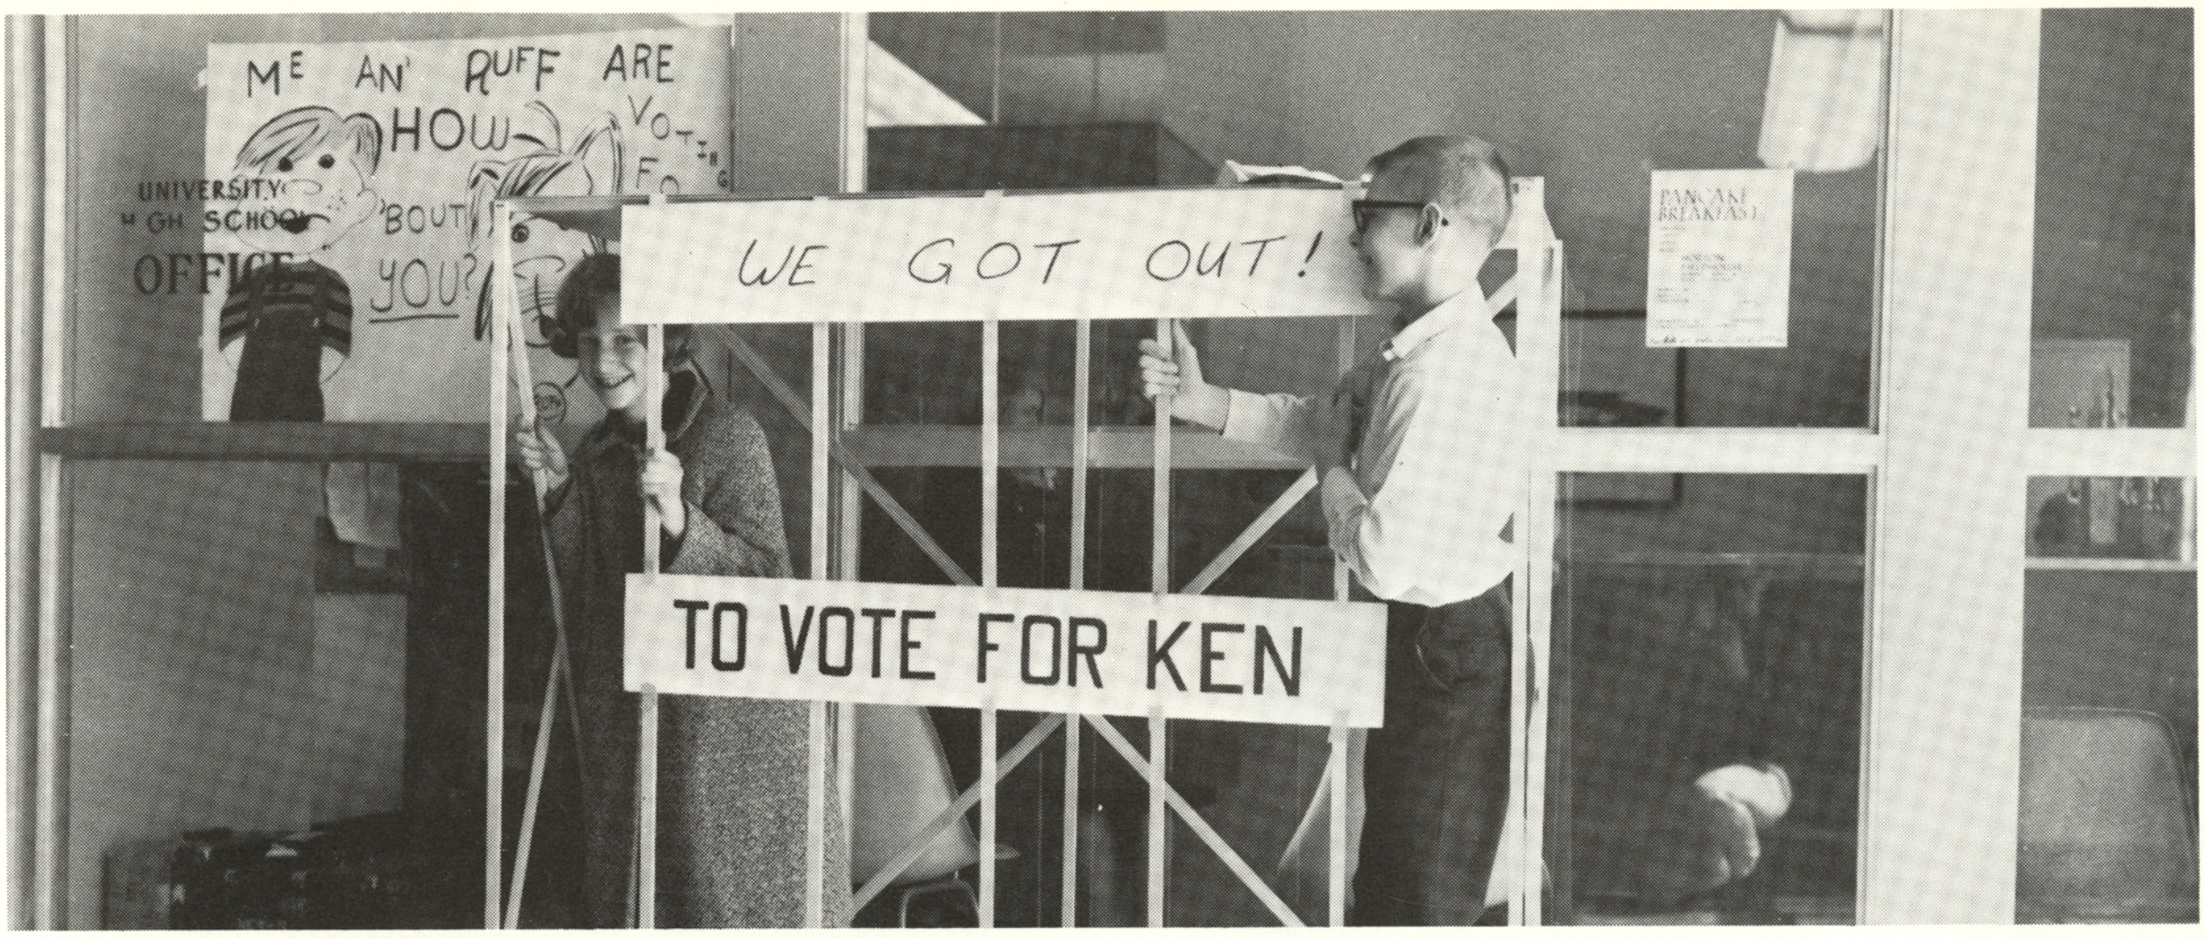

Campaign time is no time for modesty as this sign for Dale Neal testifies.

Enthusiasm and originality are always at a peak during the student council elections, and this year was no exception.

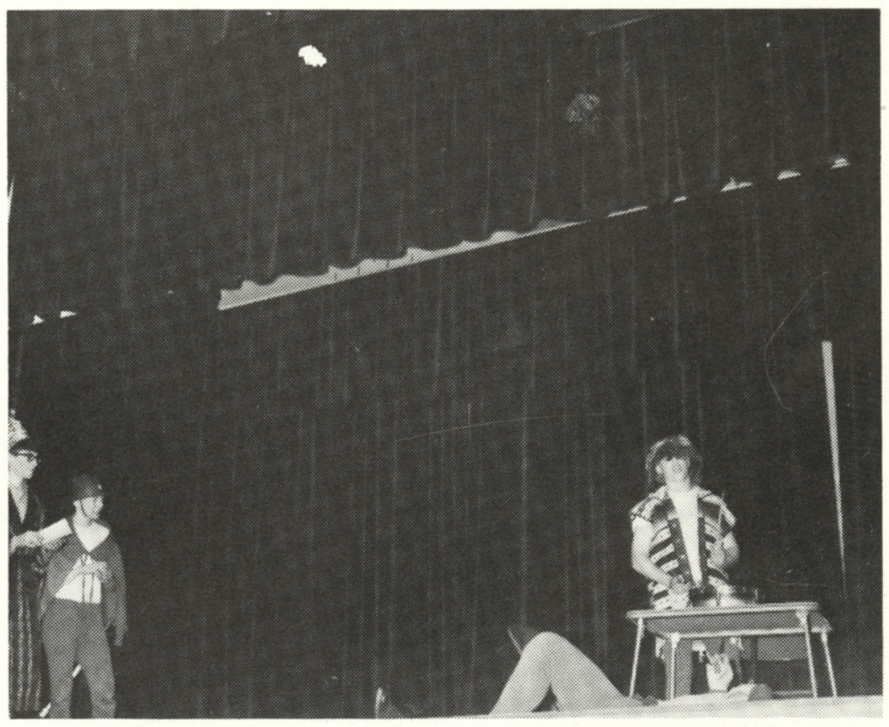

Amid the poster painting and banner making, the eight candidates and their committees found time to organize detailed skits and speeches for the kick-off assembly. The skits revealed the sense of humor of the candidates, but the speeches showed their real intelligence, sincerity, and loyalty.

Lively campaigning continued throughout the week as students and faculty began to consider the qualities of each candidate. Results of the election were announced at an all school party. Candidates elected were Dale Neal, president; Steve Dewalt, vice-president; Cindy Eaton, secretary; and Narda Cisco, treasurer.

Upperclassmen Visit 'Neptune's Palace'

As guests of the juniors, senior class members journeyed under water to visit "Neptune's Palace" on Prom night, 1965. Sea monsters, a treasure chest, and a boat decorated the Union and brought to mind mythical tales related by Miss Stroud in her talk at the banquet. Also featured at the banquet was a senior class prophecy. Entertainment at the dance was furnished by Al Pizzamiglio's band. Reigning over the festivities were Turid Fosby and Dick Templeton, Prom royalty.

After changing into more comfortable clothes, upperclassmen gathered at the Circle Lanes for bowling and pizza. A barn dance with music by the Shattertones ended the night's fun.

Awards Day Recognition, Applause Aren't

U High's Visitation Day ended with a wet walk to Capen for the annual Awards Assembly. As students dried off, the American Legion Awards went to Grace Harwood, Dick Templeton, Judy Replogle, and Bobby Hayden for outstanding citizenship qualities. Dick Templeton received the SAR award and Grace Harwood, DAR. Dale Neal was named to Boys State with Ken Philpot as his alternate. Kim Loeseke was named to Girls State with Mary Lou Britt as her alternate.

Junior Eric Larson received the Williams Cup for the best quality in creative writing. Patty Brooks, Linda Lyman, Marcia McConnell, and Grace Harwood were named to Quill and Scroll for their work in journalism.

John Hirsch received the Monroe Dodge Award for four years of outstanding work in industrial arts.

The Home Economics Department awarded Lavetta Meyer the Crisco Homemaker and Cherry Pie Awards. Sue Polley was named Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Speakers of the Year were Turid Fosby and Barry Bartrum.

Thespians of the Year were Mike Davidson and Tom Honn.

Fred Gehrt received the Bausch and Lomb Award for his achievements in science. The Blanche McAvoy Award went to Barb France and Bob Belshe. Bob was also named Ford Future Scientist for the second year.

Seniors awarded for outstanding work in the music department were Everett Lueck, band; Susan Cisco, chorus; and Barry Bartrum, orchestra.

The final award of the afternoon went to Dick Templeton who became the sixteenth recipient of the David Gipson Award.

Seniors Play Hooky at State Farm Park

Valedictorian Barry Bartrum and Salutatorian Alison Miller relax after the Class Night skit.

Seniors join in on skit finale.

State Farm Park provides recreation for these seniors.

In the afternoon, Bill Loeseke's lake was the scene of the action.

Class Night Is Supercalifragilisticexpealidocious!

According to the seniors, skip day in town this year was a success. All the activities that had been offered in previous years out of town were also easily accessible in Bloomington-Normal and did not require a long bus ride.

The adventuresome golfers began the day at Highland Golf Course, while the other seniors rushed off to State Farm Park to enjoy tennis, croquet, basketball, and sunbathing.

After a catered lunch, consisting of either fried chicken or a hamburger and a hot dog, many of the seniors scurried to the bus which took them to Bill Loeseke's lake to swim.

Near the end of the afternoon, the sunburnt seniors boarded the buses once more and set out for home. Exhausted and happy, the Class of '65 had spent the entire day in town without really realizing it.

"There's No High School Like Our High School" was the way the seniors summed up their four years at University High School. The class night skit, through the use of the imaginary Perry Moppins, pointed out the advancement that has taken place in U High since 1865, the year in which the first class graduated. Centered around musical numbers pertaining to the students' life at the new building, the skit quickly became enjoyable for both the audience and the performers on stage.

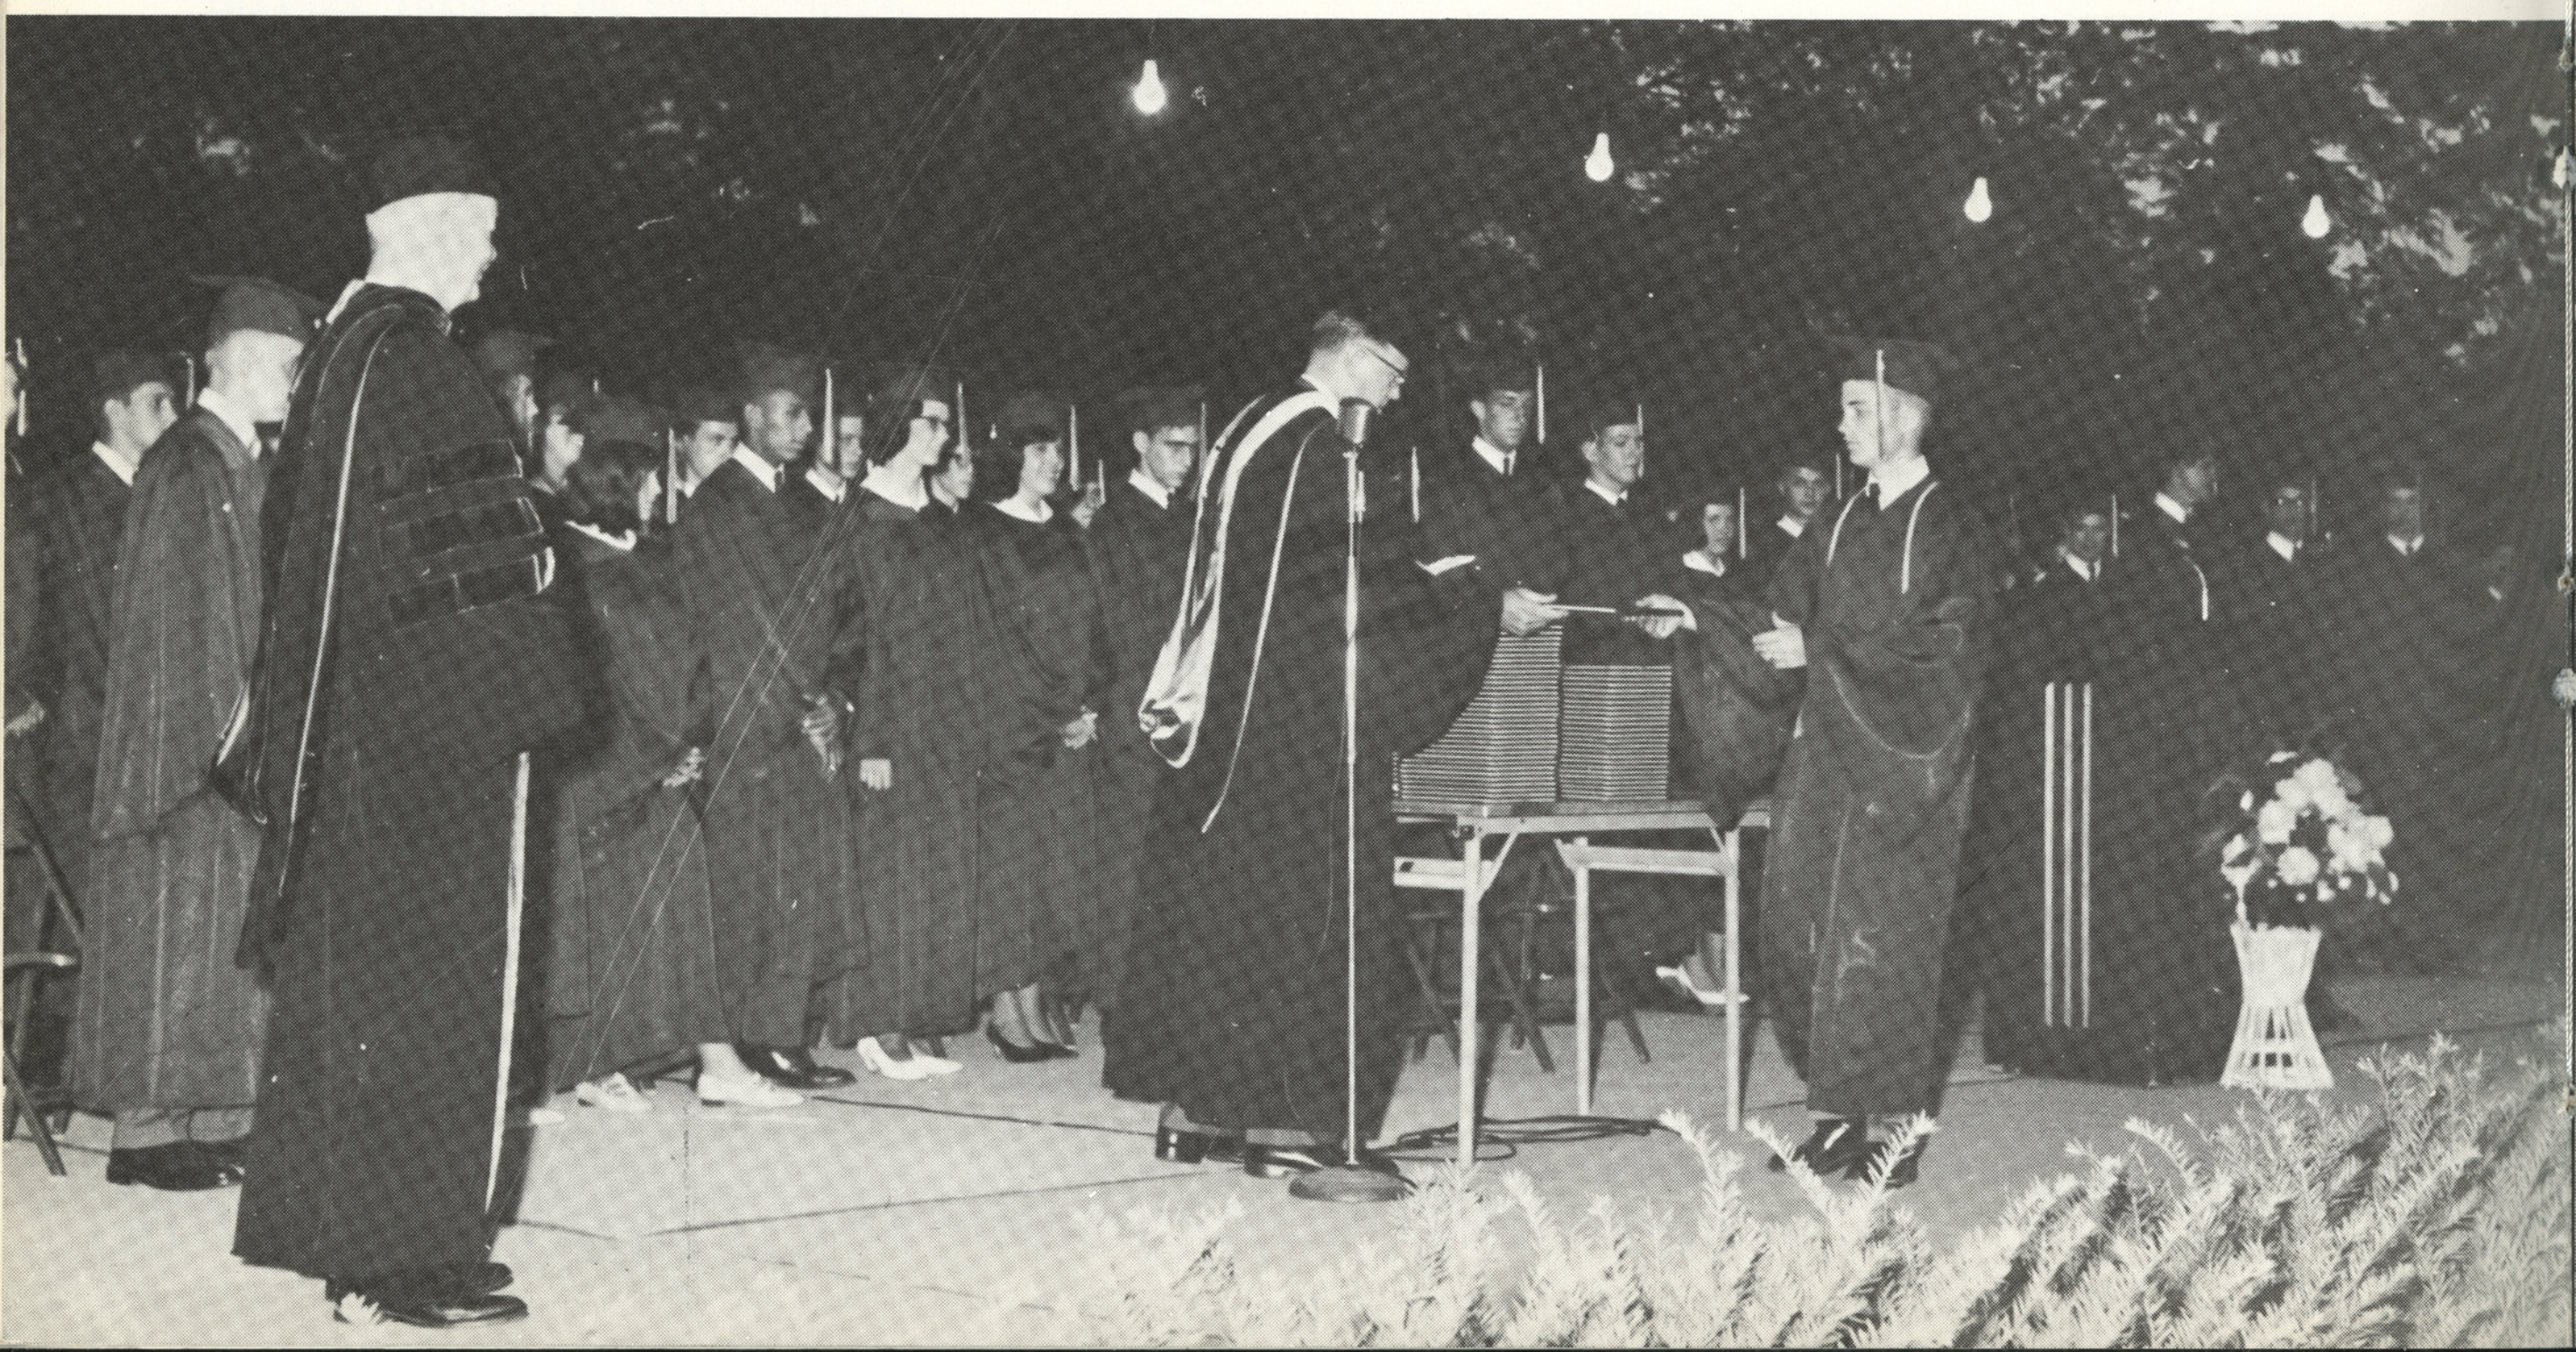

Also included in the program were the Class Night Traditions: the Salutatory and Valedictory addresses, the class gift to the sponsor and the school, the passing of the Lamp of Knowledge, and finally the moving up of classes to the school hymn.

100th Graduating Class Has Traditional Finish

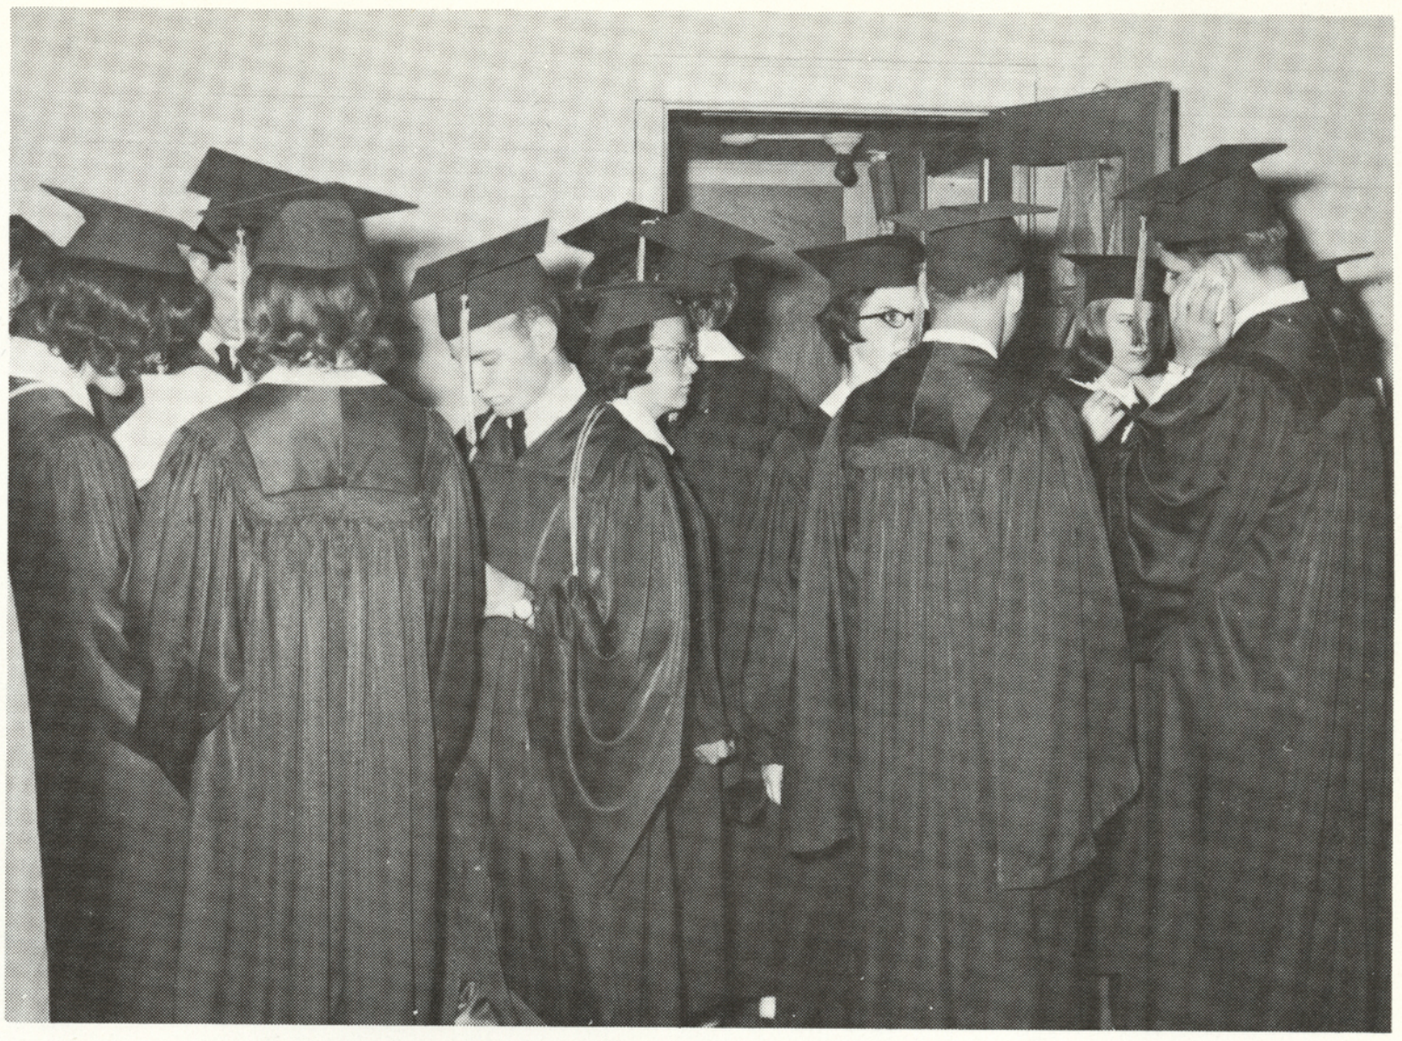

Miss Huggins hands Dick Armstrong a glass of punch at the reception after Baccalaureate.

Valedictorian Barry Bartrum receives his diploma as U High's 100th graduating class looks on.

Seniors gather in the old lounge to await the junior guides.

Baccalaureate this year was a little more than the ordinary. To the seniors of 1965, it meant something of finality, for they were the last seniors to leave Capen Auditorium. The Rev. H. Corson O'Brian addressed the seniors on "To Live Is To Choose." Rev. O'Brian emphasized the importance of making wise decisions. He stated that our lives are made up of decisions, major and minor.

Excellent weather enabled the seniors to march in as "Pomp and Circumstance" echoed over different surroundings, for they were the first class to graduate from the University's outdoor amphitheatre. Dr. Bone introduced the speaker, Mr. Tom Barger. Mr. Barger is a 1929 graduate of U High and an attorney who talked on "A Sense of Obligation." He placed the seniors among the leaders of the future and explained the many responsibilities of this generation. Dr. Lovelass presented the diplomas. After the ceremony, the seniors gathered in front of the old U High.

As parents watch, seniors enter the outdoor amphitheatre.

Our goal is to continue to bring a plentiful supply of electric power into the areas we serve. Only as the communities in this area grow and prosper can Illinois Power grow and prosper.

There are many advantages for the industry that settles in Illinois including ample electric capacity for any present or future need.

The big job in Illinois is to let industry know of the advantages that are available in our state. We are all partners in this effort. Illinois Power is anxious to cooperate in any activity designed to bring industry into the territory we serve.
